Other New and Recent Philosophy Publications from Prentice-Hall

PHILOSOPHY OF MATHEMATICS: SELECTED READINGS

by Paul Benacerraf, Princeton University and Hilary Putnam, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. An extensive collection of essays by both philosophers and mathematicians on the nature of mathematics. Philosophical questions concerning mathematics which have confronted mathematicians, as well as those which have traditionally interested philosophers, are discussed by leaders in each field. New light is shed on these problems as they are seen in different perspectives afforded by two disciplines.

April 1964, 536 pages. Text Price $9.70

BASIC PROBLEMS OF PHILOSOPHY, 3rd Edition 1964

by Daniel J. Bronstein, Yervant H. Krikorian, and Philip P. Wiener, all of the City College of the City University of New York. This new, updated Third Edition of one of the most widely used introductory philosophy texts relates philosophy to religion, science and art. (50,000 copies of the second edition are now in print). It presents major philosophical problems, conflicts and outlooks as treated by great classical and modern philosophers, and covers the philosophies of diverse schools of thought and suggestive approaches to perennial problems of philosophy.

March 1964, 676 pages. Text Price $8.95

THE PHILOSOPHY OF WITTGENSTEIN

by George Pitcher, Princeton University. A clear and straightforward account of the main ideas of Wittgenstein's Tractatus and Philosophical Investigations. This volume is designed for both the undergraduate and graduate student, so that he may comprehend Wittgenstein's philosophy more clearly, and may be guided in his own readings of Wittgenstein's writings.

March 1964, 340 pp., Text Price $7.55

HUMAN SENSES AND PERCEPTION

by

GEORGE M. WYBURN
RALPH W. PICKFORD
and RODNEY J. HIRST

An assessment of the contributions of the senses to human experience and activity, from the viewpoints of biology, psychology and philosophy, ending with a critique of the standard philosophical views supplemented by a more positive, if unorthodox, theory of perception and of the relation of body and mind it presupposes.

DOUBT'S BOUNDLESS SEA, by D. C. Allen

Professor Allen's theme is the dialogue between atheists and theists during the Renaissance in England, France, and Italy: he portrays men unsure of themselves and the world in a period of revolutionary change. The people speak for themselves in letters and essays, and the result is a clever and frequently witty account of an erudite topic. Subjects included are atheists and atheism, rational theology against atheism, reason and immortality, and the atheist redeemed.

PHILOSOPHY, SCIENCE, AND SENSE PERCEPTION, by M. Mandelbaum

In four studies, Professor Mandelbaum challenges some of the most common assumptions of contemporary epistemology. Through historical analyses and critical argument he attempts to show that one cannot successfully sever the connections between philosophic and scientific accounts of sense perception.
