

Editorial Note

The letters are arranged in chronological sequence. The layout follows that of the original letters as closely as possible. The editor has preserved the spelling and punctuation of the original letters.

Editorial interpolations are inserted between square brackets.

[...] indicates a word that is illegible. Sharpey sometimes used dashes to end sentences; and these have been rendered by the longer dashes in the text.