

essor, University of Nebraska at Kearney; formerly Southern Illinois at Carbondale.

Seyla Benhabib, professor of political science and philosophy, department of political science, New School for Social Research.

Margaret A. Brabant, assistant professor, department of political science, Butler University.

Eloise A. Buker, tenured associate professor of political science and director of the Women's Studies Program, University of Utah; formerly Gonzaga University.

Benjamin J. Cohen, Louis G. Lancaster Professor of International Political Economy, department of political science, University of California, Santa Barbara.

James Endersby, assistant professor of political science, University of Missouri-Columbia.

Christopher Gilbert, assistant professor, department of political science, Gustavus Adolphus College. Gilbert won the E. E. Schattschneider Award this year for the best dissertation in American government and politics.

James Gimpel, assistant professor, department of government and politics, University of Maryland, College Park.

Scott Hays, assistant professor, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale; formerly Florida State University.

Lorraine M. McDonnell, professor of political science and education, University of California, Santa Barbara.

Lucinda McKinney, instructor, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale; formerly American University.

Carol McPhee, assistant professor, department of political science, State University of New York College at Cortland.

T. V. Paul, assistant professor, department of political science, McGill University; formerly University of California, Los Angeles.

Anthony Pereira, assistant professor of political science, department of political science, New School for Social Research.

Cheryl Schonhardt-Bailey, lecturer, department of government, London School of Economics and Political Science; formerly University of California, Los Angeles.

Jean Schroedel, assistant professor, Center for Politics and Policy, Claremont Graduate School.

Gratzia Smeall, assistant professor of political science, St. Norbert College.

Kevin Snape, assistant professor of political science, St. Norbert College.

David Speak, assistant professor, department of political science, California State Polytechnic University, Pomona.

Edward Thompson, III, associate professor of political science, California State University San Marcos; formerly University of Tennessee, Chattanooga.

Lawrence Truitt, instructor, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale; formerly University of Arizona.

Scott D. Ward, instructor, department of political science, University of Missouri-Columbia.

Linda Faye Williams, associate professor, department of government and politics, University of Maryland, College Park.

Carol Wise, assistant professor, Center for Politics and Policy, Claremont Graduate School.

Promotions

C. Fred Alford, professor, department of government and politics, University of Maryland, College Park.

Clyde W. Barrow, associate professor with tenure, University of Massachusetts-Dartmouth.

Robert Clinton, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Uday Desai, professor, department of political science, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Timothy V. Kaufman-Osborn, professor, department of politics, Whitman College.

Nicholas R. Miller, professor, political science department, University of Maryland, Baltimore County.

William F. S. Miles, associate professor of political science, Northeastern University.

Birol A. Yesilada, associate professor with tenure, University of Missouri-Columbia.

Retirements

Stanley Anderson retired July 1991 from the University of California, Santa Barbara. Anderson served for several years as book review editor of the Western Political Quarterly.

Dean E. Mann retired July 1991 from the University of California, Santa Barbara. Former president of the Policy Studies Organization and of the Western Political Science Association, Mann was editor of the Western Political Quarterly until his retirement.

William B. Rogers, Distinguished Service Professor emeritus, State University of New York College at Cortland, effective July 15, 1991.

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

A. Lakshminath, dean and professor of law, Andhra University, India, is spending the 1991-92 academic year as a Fulbright scholar with the political science department, University of Massachusetts-Dartmouth.

John J. Weltman, visiting professor of political science, The Johns Hopkins University, 1991-92.

John T. Woolley, acting director, University of California, Santa Barbara, Washington Center, Washington, D.C., for 1991-92.

Award Recipients

Furniss Book Award

Lt. Col. C. Kenneth Allard of the United States Army has received the 1991 Edgar S. Furniss Book Award by the Mershon Center at The Ohio State University. The $1,000 award, given annually to recognize the best work in national security studies by a first-time author, was given for Command, Control, and the Common Defense, published by Yale University Press, 1990.

Gerald R. Ford Foundation Research Grants

The Gerald R. Ford Foundation awarded 16 research grants in 1991, for research in the collections of the Ford Library. The year's political science recipients, with their institutions and topics, are:

Alba Alexander, University of Chicago, "The Political Boundaries of American Tax Reform, 1942-86."

Jerald Kevin Corder, Washington University in St. Louis, "Political Conflict and Central Banking Practice: The Federal Reserve System After 1948."

Steven Dryden, independent, "The Trade Warriors: The United States Trade Representative and America in the World Economy."

Sylvia Maxfield, Yale University, "U.S. Business and International Monetary Policy."

Brian Mirsky, University of Georgia, "Development of the Republican Party in the South: Party Efforts During the Ford Administration."

Lawrence Rothenberg, Carnegie Mellon University, "Regulation and Politics: The Interstate Commerce Commission and Motor Freight Regulation."

National Academy of Public Administration

The following political scientists have been elected to the National Academy of Public Administration.

Donald F. Kettl, department of political science and La Follette Institute of Public Affairs, University of Wisconsin-Madison.

John Kincaid, U.S. Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations and University of North Texas.

Other Awards and Honors

J. Theodore Anagnoson, professor of political science, California State University, Los Angeles, has received the campus's Outstanding Professor Award for 1990-91.

Benjamin Barber, Whitman Professor of Political Science, Rutgers University, has been appointed to the French-American Foundation's 1991-92 Chair of American Civilization in Paris.

Dan Caldwell, professor of political science, Pepperdine University, Malibu, California, has been awarded the Charles and Harriet Luckman Distinguished Teaching Prize for undergraduate teaching.

George Edwards, Distinguished Professor of Political Science at Texas A&M University, has been appointed as the first holder of the Jordan Professorship in Liberal Arts at Texas A&M. Edwards assumed the directorship of the Center for Presidential Studies last spring.

Kertin Hamann, a graduate student at Washington University in St. Louis, has received the Alice Paul Dissertation Proposal Award for "Labor Legislation in Spain, 1970-1990."

Bryan Jones, professor and head of the department of political science at Texas A&M University, has been appointed the Puryear Professor of Liberal Arts.

Susan A. MacManus, professor and chair of the department of government and international affairs at the University of South Florida, Tampa, is the recipient of the University's 1991 Ashford Distinguished Scholar Award.

Thomas E. Mann, Governmental Studies Director, Brookings Institution, has been named the first recipient of the W. Averell Harriman Chair in American Governance at Brookings.

Stephen J. Silvia, The American University, has received a Bosch Younger Scholars Program Award, an in-residence fellowship at the Johns Hopkins University's American Institute for Contemporary German Studies.

Wesley G. Skogan, Northwestern University, was awarded the 1991 Distinguished Scholar Award by the Crime and Deviance Section of the American Sociological Association, for his recent book, Disorder and Decline: Crime and the Spiral of Decay in American Cities (Free Press, 1990).

Frank Sorauf has been appointed Regents' Professor at the University of Minnesota.

In Memoriam

George S. Blair

George Blair was born and grew up on the plains of Kansas where he was bred in the legacy of the plain word, straightforward language, and old fashioned common sense. George migrated to Northwestern University where he received his Ph.D. in 1951. He then held a number of academic appointments at the University of Tennessee and the University of Pennsylvania at which he served as the educational director of the Fels Institute of Local and State Government.

In 1960, George came to the Claremont Graduate School as a member of the government program that he chaired until 1984. Already the author of two books when he came to Claremont, George continued to be a public writer eventually authoring eight books, two of which are considered to be standard reading for students studying democracy and California government today: Cumu-

J. Theodore Anagnoson