Review of International Studies

Founded in 1974 as the flagship journal of the British International Studies Association, Review of International Studies serves the needs of scholars in international relations and related fields such as politics, history, law, and sociology. From 1998 the Review of International Studies has a new team of Editors based in the largest department of international politics in Europe. The Review continues to publish a significant number of high quality research articles grouped according to key themes, and review articles which survey new contributions to the field. Other innovations include the introduction of a 'forum' section to accommodate debates and replies; occasional interviews with leading scholars; 'teaching articles' and more review articles.

Environment, Scarcity, and Violence

Thomas E. Homer-Dixon

Thomas Homer-Dixon argues in this sobering book that environmental scarcities will have profound social consequences—contributing to insurrections, ethnic clashes, urban unrest, and other forms of civil violence, especially in the developing world. Clearly written and forcefully argued, this book will become the standard work on the complex relationship between environmental scarcities and human violence.

System Effects

Complexity in Political and Social Life

Robert Jervis

Based on more than three decades of observation, Robert Jervis concludes in this provocative book that the very foundations of many social science theories—especially those in political science—are faulty. This work introduces powerful new concepts that will reward not only international relations theorists, but also all social scientists with interests in comparative politics and political theory.

"There are few doubts that System Effects is an important and timely book, one that should be studied closely . . . by all people faced with the task of making decisions while uncertain about the consequences of alternative actions. . . ."—Zygmunt Bauman, The Times Literary Supplement

Co-winner of the 1998 Best Book Award in political psychology, sponsored by the APSA

Imagining War

French and British Military Doctrine between the Wars

Elizabeth Kier

In Imagining War, Elizabeth Kier uses a cultural approach to take issue with the conventional wisdom that military organizations inherently prefer offensive doctrines. Kier argues that a military's culture affects its choices between offensive and defensive military doctrines. This book tackles a central debate in security studies: the origins of military doctrine.

"Kier's book is a welcome and important addition to the growing body of literature concerned with doctrine."

Open-Economy Politics

The Political Economy of the World
Coffee Trade

Robert H. Bates

Here Robert Bates explores the International Coffee Organization, addressing key issues in international political economy and comparative politics, and analyzing the creation of political institutions and their impact on markets.

"A brilliant, subtle, nuanced examination that will stimulate discussion and set an agenda for further research in comparative politics, international relations, and the growing interface between the two."

"The first journal to appear which takes a comprehensive political science perspective on all aspects of the EU. It will no doubt become the leading journal in the field very soon"

Jan-Erik Lane

"Promises to be an absolutely vital source of articles that combine empirical research and social science theory in the growing field of European Union studies"

Gary Marks

"I applaud the launch of European Union Politics" Arend Lijphart

European Union Politics is an exciting new international journal that will provide the forum for advanced research on all aspects of the processes of government, politics and policy in the European Union.

European Union Politics will stimulate the scientific debate on the political unification of Europe and bridge the gap between the theoretical and empirical analyses in this area. The journal will publish high quality work on the theory of integration, decision making in the European Union, the political aspects of fiscal and monetary policy integration, and the relations between the EU and the non-member states.

European Union Politics particularly welcomes articles that offer a new theoretical argument, analyse original data in a novel fashion or present an innovative methodological approach. The editorial team invites submissions from any sub-field of contemporary political science, including international relations, comparative politics, political economy, public administration, public policy, and political theory.

Article manuscripts being submitted for publication should be sent to: Professor Gerald Schneider, Editor, European Union Politics, Faculty of Public Policy and Management, Box D 86, D-78457 Konstanz, Germany.
E-Mail: eup@uni-konstanz.de.

Published since 1951 by the International Political Science Association (all back volumes are available), the Abstracts is a major source of bibliographic information in political science. It publishes abstracts of articles in specialized and non specialized periodicals, including major yearbooks. Articles in English are abstracted in English; those in other languages (about one fourth of the total) are abstracted in French, with all titles translated into English. In 1998 it published 7,480 abstracts from nearly 1,000 journals, in six issues. Each issue carries a detailed subject index (cumulative for all issues of a given year) and a list of the periodicals examined. The final issue of each volume also provides an author index.

THE ULTIMATE TERRORISTS

JESSICA STERN

A former member of the National Security Council staff, Jessica Stern guides readers expertly through a post-Cold War world in which the threat of all-out nuclear war is being replaced by the threat of terrorist attacks with weapons of mass destruction.

"[Stern's] research is breathtakingly thorough, and the prose, so often describing complex technological detail, surprisingly lucid. The era of 'the ultimate terrorists', implying nuclear, biological or chemical weapons may not yet have dawned in any real sense, but the potential and the danger, as this book illustrates, are all too obvious...[Stern] has written a valuable book that should serve as a timely warning about a potentially dreadful future."

—SEAN O'CALLAGHAN, THE TIMES [UK]

"A timely book on a vitally important subject. Jessica Stern has done a thorough job of research and presents her arguments with clarity and force. This book should be a wake up call for Americans."
