

The English-Teaching Information Centre of the British Council and the Centre for Information on Language Teaching and Research

ETIC and CILT are both concerned with collecting, collating and disseminating information: ETIC is concerned with all aspects of teaching English as a second or foreign language overseas, and CILT with modern languages (including English as a second language) and their teaching in Britain. The services of both centres are available to all who are professionally concerned – students, teachers, trainers of teachers, research workers, administrators or writers.

ETIC and CILT occupy adjacent accommodation and maintain jointly the Language-Teaching Library (about 22,000 volumes), where files of journals covered by Language Teaching & Linguistics: Abstracts may be consulted. The library contains an audio-visual section with facilities for hearing and viewing teaching materials. A register of relevant current research is available for reference.

In addition to joint publications such as this journal and A Language-Teaching Bibliography, each centre issues publications in its own name.

ETIC is maintained by the British Council, and was founded in 1961. It has a network of communication with individuals and institutions in Britain and more than 120 other countries. CILT was established in 1966 and is an independent foundation supported by grants from the Department of Education and Science, the Scottish Education Department and the Ministry of Education, Northern Ireland.
