Pastoral Care in Hospital

Library of Pastoral Care

Norman Autton

17s. 6d. net

A very complete introduction to the work of a priest in hospital, whether full-time, part-time, or occasional. All engaged in the pastoral ministry will be indebted to the author, who is the Director of Training, Church Assembly Hospital Chaplaincies Council.

Principles of Pastoral Counselling

Library of Pastoral Care

R. S. Lee

15s. net

'It is very difficult to exaggerate the value of this volume . . . There is consummate wisdom in it . . . not the least merit of the book is that it is written with such simplicity and directness of style.'

The Daily Office

R. C. D. Jasper: Editor

12s. 6d. net

Published jointly with the Epworth Press

This Report of the Joint Liturgical Group, which is interdenominational, contains suggestions for a Daily Office, with lectionary, Tables of Psalms, and collects. If these proposals are widely accepted by the Churches concerned, they will mark a significant growing together in ways of worship.

Modern Liturgical Texts

8s. 6s. net

The Liturgical Commission presents 'in language that is alive in contemporary society' versions of the Lord's Prayer, Creeds, and Canticles (some the work of the Poet Laureate with musical settings by Alan Ridout) and services of Baptism, Confirmation, and Holy Communion. These versions are issued for discussion, not use.

The Apostolic Tradition of St Hippolytus

Gregory Dix: Editor

30s. net

Only the first edition of Dom Gregory's projected work was ever published, and it has for long been out of print. It contains a historical introduction, textual materials, and translation, with Apparatus Criticus and some critical notes. It is now reissued with corrections and a new introduction by Professor Henry Chadwick. Ready mid-November.

Comparative Philology and the Text of the Old Testament

James Barr

In recent Old Testament studies, increasing reliance has been placed upon the resources of language other than Hebrew—Arabic, Aramaic, Accadian and Ugaritic—to deduce the meaning of unusual words in that language. Professor Barr discusses the degree of coincidence in the vocabularies of cognate languages, the history of the transmission of meanings in Hebrew, and the value of ancient translations. This is the first book to be devoted to the subject. 65/- net

Experience and God

John E. Smith

The place of experience in the interpretation of religion has long been a central topic for philosophical and theological discussion. Professor Smith argues for a new and wider concept of experience, one that can provide a solid basis for religious belief. 49/6 net

New edition

The History of the Synoptic Tradition

R. BULTMANN

Translated by J. MARSH

This is one of the basic works of the form-critical study of the Gospels. The second edition has been substantially corrected and brought up to date by inclusion of the latest Supplement to the German edition.

The Open Heaven

The Revelation of God in the Johannine Sayings of Jesus

W. H. CADMAN

Edited by G. B. CAIRD

For over forty years W. H. Cadman devoted his great erudition and exact scholarship to the study of St. John's Gospel, and his posthumous book gives the mature fruit of his reflections.
