Human Rights Quarterly

A Comparative and International Journal of the Social Sciences, Humanities, and Law

Bert B. Lockwood, Jr., Editor-in-Chief, *Urban Morgan Institute for Human Rights,
University of Cincinnati College of Law*

Now entering its twentieth year, Human Rights Quarterly is widely recognized as the leader in the field of human rights. Drawing upon experts from around the world and from a range of disciplines, each article is edited to be understood by the intelligent reader. The Quarterly provides up-to-date information on the important developments within the United Nations and regional human rights organizations, both government and non-governmental.

It presents current work in human rights research and policy analysis, reviews of related books, and philosophical essays probing the fundamental nature of human rights as defined by the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. By providing decision makers with insight into complex human rights issues, the Quarterly helps to define national and international human rights policy. Published quarterly in February, May, August, and November.

Pursuing Military Justice

Volume 2: The History of the United States Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces, 1951–1980

Jonathan Lurie

In this timely companion volume to Arming Military Justice (1992), Jonathan Lurie continues the first wide-ranging investigation into the creation, judicial impact, and social meaning of a special civilian court to handle military appeals.

“Jonathan Lurie does an outstanding job of balancing and integrating legal, political, and personality issues, and leaves no stone unturned. He has written a book that will be the last word on this subject.”—Eugene R. Fidell, President, National Institute of Military Justice

The Power of Separation

American Constitutionalism and the Myth of the Legislative Veto

Jessica Korn

“Korn has produced a book that will be read with interest by a wide variety of scholars. . . . While [the] . . . reevaluation of the legislative veto is at the heart of Korn’s analysis, it is only one layer of this beautifully written book. Korn embeds her examination of the legislative veto in much broader currents and arguments. . . .”

Free Speech in Its Forgotten Years, 1870-1920

David M. Rabban

"Free Speech in Its Forgotten Years fundamentally revises our understanding of the history of free speech in America between the 1870s and World War I. Rabban skillfully recovers libertarian and anti-libertarian attitudes toward speech that a long tradition of twentieth-century commentary has ignored."

American Society for Legal History

ORGANIZATION AND MEMBERSHIP

The American Society for Legal History is a nonprofit membership organization dedicated to fostering scholarship, teaching, and study concerning the law and institutions of all legal systems, both Anglo-American and international. Founded in 1956, the Society sponsors this journal, and Studies in Legal History, a series of book-length monographs available to ASLH members at substantial pre-publication discounts. In addition, the Society holds an annual meeting to promote scholarship and interaction among teachers, practitioners, and students interested in legal history, and publishes a semiannual newsletter reporting developments in the field. For further information concerning the Society, please write: Donald Nieman, History Department, Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, OH 43403.
