

People in Political Science

Activities

Walter D. Broadnax has been nominated by Gov. Mario M. Cuomo as the next New York State civil service commissioner. Broadnax expects to take leave of absence from his position as professor, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

Glen Browder has been elected Secretary of State of Alabama.

Carl Q. Christol, professor of international law and political science, University of Southern California, went to Taiwan, Thailand, China, and Korea in April and May to participate in conferences and to give talks on international law and U.S. constitutional law.

Stephen N. Collier, former president of the Massachusetts General Hospital Institute of Health Professions and John Hilton Knowles Professor of Health Policy, has been appointed to the Commission on Academic Health Centers and the Economy of New England. The commission is a two-year activity to study the impact that academic health centers have on local, state, and regional economies.

Allan D. Cooper, assistant professor, Saint Augustine's College, has received an NEH Summer Seminar grant to study "Fascism as a Generic Phenomenon" at Yale University.

Gil Loescher, associate professor of government and international studies, University of Notre Dame, has been awarded a two-year grant from The Twentieth Century Fund to write a book on international cooperation and the management of refugee problems.

Darrell Hammer, professor, Indiana University, was a senior exchange scholar with the USSR Academy of Sciences in March 1987.

Iliya Harik, professor, Indiana University, received a research grant from the Joint Committee on the Near and Middle East of the American Council of Learned Societies and the Social Science Research Council for his project "Transformation of Development Strategies: Privatization in Egypt and Tunisia."

Ronald I. Meltzer, associate professor of political science at the State University of New York at Buffalo, spent the spring semester of 1987 at the Institut Teknologi Mara in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, under the SUNY/Buffalo-Malaysian Cooperative Education Program.

Walter D. Broadnax of Harvard University has been named the Civil Service Commissioner of New York State. Photo by Martha Stewart

Alfred G. Meyer of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, is President of the Midwest Slavic Conference, 1987-88.

Kevin Middlebrook, assistant professor, Indiana University, has received a grant from the Howard Heinz Endowment for research on "Organized Labor's Response to Economic Crisis in Mexico."

William F. S. Miles, assistant professor of political science at Northeastern University in Boston, has been awarded a Professional Development Research Fellowship by the American Institute of Indian Studies. He will spend the 1987-88 academic year studying development administration in the former French colony of Pondichery in southern India.

Elinor Ostrom, professor, Indiana University, is the editor of a new journal, Journal of Theoretical Politics.

Marc Howard Ross, professor at Bryn Mawr College, has been elected President of the Society for Cross-Cultural Research for 1987-88.

Kaare Strom, assistant professor at the University of Minnesota, is among nine junior faculty members selected to hold McKnight/Land-grant Professorships. Each recipient will receive an annual research grant of $16,500 for the next three years and will have a one-year paid research leave. Strom's research project during the grant period is "Political Competition in Western Democracies."

Thomas P. Wolf, Indiana University Southeast, has been selected to participate in an NEH summer seminar on the Japanese cultural tradition to be held June 29-August 21, 1987, at Harvard University.

Administrative Appointments

Abbott A. Brayton, vice president for academic affairs and dean of the faculty, Davis & Elkins College; formerly East Tennessee State University.

Trevor L. Chandler, associate dean of the graduate school, University of Washington, has been appointed the first Minority Dean in Residence by the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States.

Stephen N. Collier has been appointed to the Commission on Academic Health Centers and the Economy of New England.

Marion Doro, chair, government department at Connecticut College.

A. Lee Fritschler, director of the Center for Public Policy Education at the Brookings Institution, has been named president of Dickinson College.

Bruce F. Grube, professor of political science and associate vice president for administration at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona, has been named provost and academic vice president.

Arthur B. Gunlicks, chair, department of political science, University of Richmond, effective fall 1987.

Robert Huckfeldt, graduate adviser, department of political science, Indiana University.

Barbara Kellerman, professor of political science at the Institute for Leadership Studies of Fairleigh Dickinson University, has been appointed Dean of Graduate Studies and Research at Fairleigh Dickinson.

David C. Leege, professor of government at the University of Notre Dame, has been appointed the first director of the Hesburgh Program in Public Service, effective June 1987. He formerly was director of the university's Center for the Study of Contemporary Society, 1976-85, and remains as director of the Program for Research on Religion, Church, and Society.

Donna E. Shalala is chancellor of the University of Wisconsin.

Frances Kahn Zemans is executive vice president and director of the American Judicature Society.

Donna E. Shalala, president of Hunter College, will become the first female chancellor of the University of Wisconsin.

Anne L. Schneider, interim head, department of political science, Oklahoma State University.

Timothy Tilton, undergraduate adviser, department of political science, Indiana University.

Frances Kahn Zemans, executive vice president and director, American Judicature Society.

New Appointments

Paul A. Beck, professor, department of political science, Ohio State University; formerly Florida State University.

Donald W. Chisholm, assistant professor, department of political science, Ohio State University; formerly University of California.

Paul Gehman, assistant professor of political science, State University of New York at Buffalo.

Kathie Golden, assistant professor of political science, Texas Tech University; formerly a graduate student, University of Kentucky.

Mary Hale, assistant professor of political science, Texas Tech University; formerly a graduate student, Arizona State University.

Jeffrey Isaac, associate professor, department of political science, Indiana University; formerly Fordham University.

Lawrence Katzenstein, assistant professor, department of political science, University of New Orleans; formerly Lafayette College.

Michael Malbin is currently minority staff consultant on the U.S. House Select Committee to Investigate Covert Arms Transactions with Iran, after which he will be at the House Republican Conference.

Michael Mosher, associate professor, faculty of political science, University of Tulsa.

Anthony Mughan, associate professor, department of political science, Ohio State University; formerly of University College, Cardiff, and Australian National University.

Kevin J. O'Brien, assistant professor, department of political science, Ohio State University; formerly Yale University.

Denis Fred Simon, associate professor of international business and technology at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University; formerly Sloan School of Management at MIT.

Kathryn A. Sikkink, assistant professor, department of political science, University of Minnesota; formerly Columbia University.

Steven S. Smith, associate professor, department of political science, University of Minnesota; formerly Senior Fellow, The Brookings Institution.

David J. Sylvan, associate professor, department of political science, University of Minnesota; formerly Syracuse University.

Shibley Telhami, assistant professor, department of political science, Ohio State University; formerly University of Southern California.

Pinky S. Wassenberg, assistant professor of political studies and faculty associate of the Center for Legal Studies, Sangamon State University; formerly of Central Michigan University.

Frank Zagare, associate professor of political science, State University of New York at Buffalo; formerly of Boston University.

Promotions

Franklin Hugh Adler, early promotion to professor for meritorious scholarship, teaching and service, Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio.

Janet Boles, associate professor with tenure, department of political science, Marquette University.

Edward B. Davis, professor, department of political science, The Citadel.

Sheila McClarren Davis, professor, department of political science, Baptist College at Charleston.

Russell Hanson, associate professor, department of political science, Indiana University.

Jeffrey Hart, professor, department of political science, Indiana University.

Thomas R. Morris, professor, department of political science, University of Richmond.

J. D. Phaup, professor, Texas A&I University.

Gordon B. Smith, professor, department of political science and international studies, University of South Carolina.

Karen B. Wiley, associate professor with tenure, Colorado School of Mines.

Gerald Wright, professor, department of political science, Indiana University.

Retirements

Byrum E. Carter, professor, Indiana University, after 39 years of service.

Samuel J. Eldersveld, professor emeritus, University of Michigan, as of April 1987.

Harold V. Sare, Regents Service Professor Emeritus of Political Science, Oklahoma State University.

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

John Baylis, visiting professor at Brigham Young University, winter semester, 1987, from University College of Wales.

David Bohn, Brigham Young University, will be at the University of Bern, Switzerland, for summer and fall semester, 1987.

People in Political Science

Gary Bryner, Brigham Young University, is at the National Academy of Public Administration from July 1986 to September 1987.

Richard Cox, professor of political science at the State University of New York at Buffalo is scheduled to spend the academic year 1987-88 as a visiting professor at the Naval War College in Newport, Rhode Island.

Robert Darcy, Oklahoma State University, will be Honorary Senior Research Fellow in Political Science, Queen's University, Belfast, for fall 1987 and visiting professor in political science, National University of Ireland, University College, Galway, for spring 1988.

Byron Daynes, visiting professor at Brigham Young University, 1986-87, from DePauw University.

Vincent Geohegan, Queen's University, Belfast, will be visiting associate professor of political science at Oklahoma State University in fall 1987.

Gordon M. Hutton, National University of Ireland, University College, Galway, will be visiting associate professor of political science at Oklahoma State University in spring 1988.

James P. Lester, on leave from Colorado State University where he is an associate professor, is a visiting scholar at the Martin School of Public Administration, University of Kentucky, and a research associate at the Council of State Governments during 1987-88.

Maurice M. Roumani, associate research professor for 1986-87 at George Washington University, department of political science.

Stan Taylor, Brigham Young University, will be a visiting scholar at the University of Kent in Canterbury, winter semester, 1988.

Joseph W. Westphal, Head, Department of Political Science, Oklahoma State University, has been selected as visiting scholar at The Institute for Water Resources in Washington, D.C. for the 1987-88 academic year.

Award Recipients

American Academy of Arts and Sciences

Five political scientists—Robert G. Gilpin, Peter J. Katzenstein, Herbert Kaufman, Herbert McClosky, and Harold Wilensky—were recently elected to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. British political scientist, David Edgeworth Butler, was elected as a Foreign Honorary Member.

Berlin Program for Advanced German and European Studies

The Social Science Research Council has selected the 1987 fellows of the Berlin Program for Advanced German and European Studies. Among them are the following political scientists.

Cathleen S. Fisher, Ph.D. candidate in political science, University of Maryland, for research on West German policy-making in the 1980s.

Mary N. Hampton, Ph.D. candidate in political science, University of California, Los Angeles, for research on the evolution of the Federal Republic of Germany in the western security regime.

Kim I. Moermond, Ph.D. candidate in political science, Columbia University, for research on the interaction between the context and conduct of West German policies in the intra-German context with the processes of change in East Germany.

Everett McKinley Dirksen Award

The 1986 Everett McKinley Dirksen Award for distinguished reporting of Congress was presented to Cokie Roberts of National Public Radio. Roberts was cited for radio broadcasts that brought the personalities, issues, and politics of Capitol