Announcing A New Series

THE MAKING OF MODERN FREEDOM

R. W. Davis, General Editor

*Center for the History of Freedom
Washington University, St. Louis*

Freedom has recently been proclaimed the dominant public value of the Western World, yet its full history has never been written. In this ambitious series, scholars of international eminence study how freedom came into being, tracing its spread throughout the world, the obstacles it encountered, its triumphs and its failures.

Parliament and Liberty

FROM THE REIGN OF ELIZABETH
TO THE ENGLISH CIVIL WAR

Edited by J. H. Hexter

The issues of English freedom debated in the House of Commons through the outbreak of the civil war remain central issues today: free elections and representation; property and taxation; the rule of law and executive power; the difficult adjustment of liberty, public welfare, and military necessity. This book shows how those issues converged in early 17th-century England to create the first crisis in the making of modern freedom. 360 pp. $39.50

Liberty Secured?

BRITAIN BEFORE AND AFTER 1688

Edited by J. R. Jones

When the English Commonwealth collapsed, the Stuart Monarchy was restored; but it failed to secure itself in the face of continuous, dynamic change in all aspects of life. Using the Revolution of 1688-89 as a vantage point, the author examines the impact of various processes of change on essential freedoms in politics, religion, expression, and the law. 426 pp. $42.50

Gentlemen Capitalists

THE SOCIAL AND POLITICAL WORLD
OF THE VICTORIAN BUSINESSMAN

H.L. Malchow

Case studies examine the cultural and political environment in which four successful Victorian businessmen (each of whom was engaged in an important sector of the 19th-century economy and subsequently entered parliament) moved and acted, and which they did much to shape. 450 pp., illus. $47.50

Women and Social Action in Victorian and Edwardian England

Jane Lewis

By examining the public and private lives of five Englishwomen, each committed to social action and a prominent figure in various social-policy concerns, this book overturns many long-held beliefs about the relationship between women and social reform in late Victorian and Edwardian England. 336 pp. $39.50

Victorian Faith in Crisis

ESSAYS ON CONTINUITY AND CHANGE IN NINETEENTH-CENTURY RELIGIOUS BELIEF

Edited by

Richard J. Helmstadter & Bernard Lightman
Heretofore, historians have seen Victorian England's "crisis of faith" in simple terms. Scholars now assert that it was the result of a complex set of interactions, and some of them doubt whether a crisis of faith occurred. These essays reflect the varied directions this reassessment has taken. 416 pp. $45.00

Enemies Under His Feet

RADICALS AND NONCONFORMISTS
IN BRITAIN, 1664-1677

Richard L. Greaves

In the second of three volumes on the radical underground during the Restoration, the author challenges the assumption that militant Protestantism was nearly extinct during the period. He convincingly argues that far from dying out, radical dissent simply went underground. 344 pp. $39.50
