319 Society Notices

The editors regret the appearance of an error in the March 1993 issue, in the article "Confronting Secularization: Origins of the London Society for the Study of Religion," by Mr. Lawrence Barmann. In footnote 9, pages 24–25, we misprinted two translations from Latin. The translations should read "Everyone is free to embrace and profess that religion which through the light of his reason he comes to think is true" and "Protestantism is nothing other than a different expression of the same true Christian religion in which one can as well please God as in the Catholic church," respectively.
