Dissent in Early Modern China

Ju-lin wai-shih* and Ch'ing Social Criticism

A study of intellectual ferment—dissent, change, and social criticism—in eighteenth-century China, as seen through the life of Wu Ching-tzu, author of China's greatest pre-twentieth-century satirical novel, Ju-lin wai-shih. Ropp illuminates the eighteenth century as an era of both decline and renewal and one whose social criticisms foreshadowed similar dissent which culminated in reformist and revolutionary movements in the twentieth century.

World Development Report 1980

THE WORLD BANK

World Development Report, 1980, with its Statistical Annex, World Development Indicators, is the third in an annual series designed to present to the public a continuing assessment of world development issues at the national and international levels. This year's Report looks at two major challenges facing developing countries at the start of the decade. First, they must try to continue the economic and social progress of the past thirty years under international conditions that look less helpful than a decade or even a year ago. Second, they must struggle to relieve the plight of those 800 million people living in absolute poverty who have benefited too little from past progress. The Report examines important aspects of the difficulties and the prospects in both areas, looking as far ahead as 2000, but paying particular attention to the next five to ten years.

A Himalayan Tribe

From Cattle to Cash

Christoph von Furer-Haimendorf

The development of the Apa Tanis stands in sharp contrast to the decline of many other Indian tribes. From an archaic economy and total illiteracy they have moved rapidly into the modern world. The author observed this surprising process in the course of periodic visits to the Apa Tanis between 1944 and 1978, and he describes the unique advancement with insight and sympathy. $15.00, illustrated

Peasant China in Transition

The Dynamics of Development toward Socialism, 1949-1956

Vivienne Shue

Shue demonstrates that China’s swift agricultural collectivization can be understood only in the context of several rural economic policies that preceded it. Her analysis establishes a new benchmark for assessing agrarian reform movements in third-world countries, the Soviet and other socialist collectivization drives, as well as China’s own subsequent political development. $25.75, illustrated

Poetry and Speculation of the Rg Veda

Willard Johnson

For centuries translators of the Rg Veda have been perplexed by passages that seem hopelessly obscure, their associations buried in the remote past. Using the methodology of recent literary criticism, Johnson focuses on the need to understand these passages in terms of their original context—the Rg Vedic speculative symposium—and their basic form—riddle and response. $18.50

Tokutomi Sohō, 1863-1957

A Journalist for Modern Japan
JOHN D. PIERSON

Tokutomi Sohō was one of modern Japan's most prolific, most popular, and most influential journalists and social critics. In this comprehensive biography, John Pierson focuses primarily on the development of Sohō's thought, but also on his character and personality, his activities and experiences, as they touch upon aspects of modern Japanese society.

Sacrifice and Divine Marriage in the South Indian
Śaiva Tradition
DAVID DEAN SHULMAN

South India is a land of many temples and shrines, each of which has preserved a local tradition of myth, folklore, and ritual. As one of the first Western scholars to explore this tradition in detail, David Shulman brings together the stories associated with these sacred sites and places them in the context of the greater Hindu religious tradition.

The Evolution of Chinese Tz'u Poetry

From Late T'ang to Northern Sung
KANG-I SUN CHANG

Chinese tz'u poetry was the most prominent poetic genre of the Sung dynasty (960-1279). By concentrating on five major poets whose works represent milestones in the development of the tz'u from the ninth through the eleventh centuries, Kang-i Sun Chang demonstrates the importance of generic evolution for the study of literary history.

A Translation of the Shen-chien

CH'I-YÜN CH'EN

Presented here for the first time to Western readers is an English translation of Hsün Yüeh's Shen-chien, one of the four major philosophical works that have survived from the later Han dynasty (A.D. 25-220). Written by a high-ranking official and prominent historian-philosopher at a time of great political upheaval and dramatic intellectual change, these writings are of immense historical value.

Essays in Political and Cultural Interactions

Edited by AKIRA IRIYE

Together these essays tell the story of how two highly self-conscious cultures, each with long and proud traditions of their own, have defined themselves both with respect to one another and under the influence of the West. Focusing on the period between 1800 and 1945, the essays approach the modern history of Chinese-Japanese relations in terms of the contact between the countries' ideas, institutions, and governments.

Education and Equality in Japan

WILLIAM KENNETH CUMMINGS

In this study of education in postwar Japan, William Cummings shows how the Japanese have succeeded where the Americans have failed in promoting egalitarian social change through the school systems. On the basis of extensive primary research and direct personal observation in the classroom, the author examines how the curriculum, pedagogy, and teacher-pupil relationship in Japanese schools contribute to leveling the social structures the youths enter once they leave school.

STUDIES IN THE MODERNIZATION OF THE REPUBLIC OF KOREA: 1945–1975

The Economic and Social Modernization of the Republic of Korea

EDWARD S. MASON, MAHN JE KIM, DWIGHT H. PERKINS, KWANG SUK KIM, DAVID C. COLE, and others

A lucid summary of the individual volumes in the series Studies in the Modernization of the Republic of Korea: 1945–1975. Against the background of Korean history, individual chapters deal with post-World War II economic and social developments in rural and urban areas; the relationship between government and business; monetary, financial, and fiscal policies; education, health, and population trends; and the sharing of growth benefits among various segments of Korean society. The volume culminates in an assessment of Korea's sources of growth and economic prospects.

Science in Contemporary China

Edited by Leo A. Orleans. This is the first comprehensive survey of Chinese science since 1961, a collection of 28 papers by distinguished American scientists describing developments of the late 1970's in the natural and social sciences, and several areas of technology. Chapters dealing with individual disciplines include a brief historical sketch, an account of current research, a description of the relevant research centers and scientific journals, and an assessment of the subject's importance within China's developmental priorities. Nearly all the contributors have recently visited China. $35.00

Dictionary of Chinese Law and Government

Chinese-English

Philip R. Bilancia. An indispensable tool for anyone studying the institutional life of contemporary China, this is an entirely new dictionary of more than 25,000 Chinese terms, at least 15,000 examples of usage, and more than 30,000 cross-references. The coverage extends from 1939 to 1977, a period of enormous terminological complexity, and treats every aspect of legal and administrative terminology, as well as terms of political, historical, and sociological interest. The sources are largely from the Communist period, but pre-1949 usage is well represented. $45.00

The International Energy Relations of China

Kim Woodard. Certain to be the standard reference work on the subject, this comprehensive political and statistical analysis treats all aspects of China's energy development and foreign energy policy. Part I describes, analyzes, and projects the course of China's international energy relations from 1949 through the year 2000. Part II presents a detailed, coordinated set of energy balance statistics and nearly 100 statistical tables that give data for the resource, production, consumption, and trade stages of each energy industry, with projected statistics to the year 2000. $50.00

China Under Threat

The Politics of Strategy and Diplomacy
Melvin Gurtov and Byong-Moo Hwang
"A benchmark in the field of Chinese foreign policy analysis." — Allen S. Whiting,
University of Michigan

China Under Threat takes a new approach to the making of foreign policy behind the Great Wall, considering the philosophical, methodological, and experiential standpoints of Chinese policymakers. Melvin Gurtov and Byong-Moo Hwang base their arguments on a study of Chinese politics during five major crises: the Korean War, the 1958 Taiwan Strait crisis, the Sino-Indian border war in 1962, the Vietnam War, and the 1969 Sino-Soviet border disputes. Contrary to conventional interpretations, they conclude that Chinese foreign policy is a vital outgrowth of domestic political priorities, values, and institutions. $22.95

China-Watch

Sino-American Reconciliation
Robert G. Sutter

foreword by Allen S. Whiting
China-Watch provides a fascinating behind-the-scenes chronicle of the intricate and erratic relationship between China and the United States from the overthrow of Chiang Kai-shek to Richard Nixon's historic visit. A new preface, prepared by the author for the paperback edition, assesses the latest developments in Chinese-American diplomacy.

"[Sutter] effectively tracks the zigzags of the Communist Chinese as they juggled the United States and the Soviet Union, and he stresses a point that is highly relevant to the triangular relationship today... that the foreign policy of the Chinese has been based on their balancing the powers in their own interests." — Stanley Karnou, New York Times Book Review $10.95 hardcover, $3.95 paperback

1587, A Year of No Significance

The Ming Dynasty in Decline

Ray Huang

Huang's account of the events of this year and his vivid portrayal of the lives of seven officials prominent in the court reveal much about China's perennial inability to adapt to change, a failure which led to the decline of the Ming dynasty. Huang's ingenious perspective on this subject is a major contribution to the understanding of Chinese history.

"No book of this kind in any language exists for the entire Chinese history field. Its most remarkable quality is the skill with which it conveys the texture of life, imparting to the reader a sense of having been inside the environment of Chinese politics and of seeing the complexities of another world as immediate and intelligible matters."—Frederick W. Mote $19.95

The Great Age of Chinese Poetry

The High T'ang

Stephen Owen

The High T'ang (ca. 712-790) was the golden age of Chinese poetry. In this first literary history of the period, Stephen Owen portrays its major figures and groups, its social milieu, its conventions and their relation to earlier poetry.

"This is a pioneering effort. There is no other work in any European language that treats the subject on this scale, and nothing in Chinese or Japanese with this kind of awareness of literary development."

CHINESE CIVILIZATION AND SOCIETY

A Sourcebook

Edited by PATRICIA BUCKLEY EBREY

"...groundbreaking in the area of family and women's history...and in its treatment of ritual and popular religion...[includes] a sophisticated yet simple-worded guide to methodology of documentary analysis and interpretation!"

*—Charlotte Furth, California State University, Long Beach

- The first sourcebook dealing with three millennia of Chinese social history as the Chinese themselves perceived it.
- 88 selections comprise the book. 84 newly-transcribed excerpts from letters, diaries, stories, contracts, handbooks, newspaper articles and other documents.
- Lively, easy-to-read accounts of women, merchants, peasants, the ruling class and intellectuals reveal how institutions and historical events affected all Chinese.
- Chronological in organization.
- Cross-referenced thematically so that aspects of Chinese society can be viewed—and compared—across time.

- Extensively class-tested at Yale, Columbia, Bowdoin, Valparaiso, and the Universities of Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Illinois, and Nebraska.

- Rich assortment of teaching aids, including Suggested topical arrangement, a short chronology of Chinese history, glossary, suggested further readings, original sources cited, and index.

- An indispensable sourcebook for introductory and advanced-level students in Chinese History and Civilization courses and for historians and teachers in the field.

"[Chinese Civilization and Society]...fills a great need...readable and interesting...will be a great help in a number of courses."

REISCHAUER'S JAPAN REVISITED

JAPAN: *The Story of a Nation

NEW

Third Edition

Edwin O. Reischauer, Harvard University

In this new edition, almost completely rewritten from earlier versions, Edwin O. Reischauer—former U.S. Ambassador to Japan and now one of this country's leading authorities on Japan—has brought up to date his renowned study of Japanese history, culture, and politics.

The author delineates the evolution of Japanese civilization as a whole: the language; religion; samurai warrior caste; imperial rule to military dictatorship; World War II and postwar American occupation; and the recovery of the Japanese economy. Reischauer analyzes the current challenges faced by the Japanese as they reassess their basic values, national goals, economic policies, and international alignments—concluding with a new chapter that highlights Japan's role as a major industrial power.

STUDIES ON KOREA

A Scholar's Guide

edited by Han-Kyo Kim • $25.00

Though a large volume of literature on Korea has accumulated, the student has been hampered by the absence of an up-to-date, authoritative guide to this material. Hence the present volume at the present time. The primary aim of the guide is to present basic bibliographic information, especially on publications in English, in all the customary academic disciplines. Of special interest are separate chapters on North Korea and on Russian language materials. Han-Kyo Kim, professor of political science at the University of Cincinnati, has been actively engaged in teaching, research, and publication activities in Korean studies for some twenty years.

TRADITIONAL MUSIC IN MODERN JAVA

Gamelan in a Changing Society

Judith Becker • $30.00

The author contends that socio-political changes in Javanese society since the 1940s are reflected in changes in the structure of gamelan music, which is one of the traditional musics of Java. Becker examines the works of contemporary composers Ki Wasitodipuro and Ki Nartosabdho to illustrate modern innovations in gamelan composition and the attitudes of composers to their music, as they attempt to compromise between the ethos and structure of traditional gamelan music and the changing tastes and attitudes of the modern Indonesian nation. Judith Becker, associate professor of musicology at the University of Michigan, spent more than two years of fieldwork in Java on gamelan music.

CHINA'S ISLAND FRONTIER

Studies in the Historical Geography of Taiwan

edited by Ronald G. Knapp • $20.00

This is the story, told from many viewpoints, of how Taiwan was transformed over a period of three centuries from a raw frontier to a stable entity with social and economic patterns similar to those found along the coastal mainland of southeastern China. This collection of essays is not a comprehensive treatment but a multifaceted look at the patterns and processes of Taiwan's historical geography. The eleven essays are well illustrated with maps and photographs. Ronald G. Knapp, professor of geography at the State University of New York, College at New Paltz, has conducted research in Taiwan in 1965-66, 1970, and 1978.

THE SILENCE OF LOVE

Twentieth-Century Korean Poetry

edited and introduced by

Peter H. Lee • $8.95 paperback

As Donald Keene has written, "This first collection of modern Korean poetry in English translation startled me with its stunning variety and the directness of its appeal. No doubt this impression owes much to the translators, who have convinced me that these are the voices of the poets themselves." Included are extensive selections from sixteen poets, each likely to maintain a permanent place in the Korean poetic tradition. Peter H. Lee, professor of Korean and comparative literature at the University of Hawaii, is a member of the International Council of the Translation Center.
