

People in Political Science

Activities

David A. Caputo, professor of political science and department head, Purdue University, has received a Senior Fulbright Fellowship and will be lecturing at the Center for American Studies, Rome, Italy, from March to June 1985. He also has received a Lilly Foundation Faculty Fellowship (to be used with his university sabbatical) for 1985. His research deals with economic policy-making and the role of economists in domestic policy-making.

Carol Cassel was awarded tenure at the University of Alabama.

Roger H. Davidson, senior specialist in American government and public administration at the Congressional Research Service, has been elected a director of the Everett McKinley Dirksen Endowment Fund. The Fund's Board of Directors oversees the Dirksen Congressional Leadership Research Center in Pekin, Illinois, as well as various research and public education programs relating to congressional leadership.

Warner E. Mills, Beloit College, was a delegate to the 1984 Democratic National Convention.

Beth S. Schapiro, formerly executive director of Research Atlanta, has opened a consulting firm, Beth Schapiro and Associates, to provide public and private sector clients with help in community relations, external affairs, public policy research, and political planning.

Philippe C. Schmitter has renewed his term appointment at the European University Institute (San Domenico di Fiesole, Florence, Italy) until 1987. He has resigned from the Department of Political Science, University of Chicago, effective October 1, 1984.

Beth S. Schapiro has opened a public affairs and political consulting firm in Atlanta.

Ernest Wilson, assistant professor, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, is the recipient of an International Affairs Fellowship from the Council on Foreign Relations for 1985-86. He has been invited by the Fridtjof Nansen Institute to lecture on the politicization of world oil markets to scholarly and government audiences in several cities in Norway, February 1985.

Administrative Appointments

Richard P. Adinero, chairman, Department of Political Science, Seton Hall University.

People in Political Science

Luther F. Carter, director, Institute for Public Affairs and Policy Studies, College of Charleston.

Bruce Clary, chairperson, Department of Political Science, University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

Patrick R. Cotter, University of Alabama, was appointed co-director of the Capstone Poll in the Institute for Social Science Research.

Philip B. Coulter, University of Alabama, was appointed director of the Institute for Social Science Research.

Patricia S. Florestano has been appointed as acting vice president for governmental relations, University of Maryland. She will be responsible for coordinating all legislative and other governmental interactions of the university.

Betty B. Hardee, University of Alabama, was appointed director of the National Network of State Polls in the Institute for Social Science Research.

Mary Hepburn, professor of social science education, University of Georgia, has been named head of the new Governmental Education Division of the Vinson Institute of Government.

Samuel M. Hines, Jr., chairman, Department of Political Science, College of Charleston.

Mary Hepburn directs the Governmental Education Division of the Carl Vinson Institute of Government at the University of Georgia.

James K. Oliver, chairperson, Department of Political Science, University of Delaware.

William D. Pederson, associate professor of political science at Louisiana State University in Shreveport, has been appointed director of American studies and director of the annual Washington, D.C. semester.

Paul K. Pollock, chairperson, Department of Government, Beloit College.

James M. Prater, University of Alabama, was appointed director of the Research and Consulting Lab in the Institute for Social Science Research.

Daljit Singh, dean, College of Business and Public Administration, University of Guam.

Frank L. Wilson, acting head, Purdue University, Department of Political Science, calendar year 1985.

Patricia A. Florestano is acting vice president for governmental relations at the University of Maryland, College Park.

New Appointments

Karen Beckwith, assistant professor of political science, The College of Wooster.

Glen T. Broach, professor of political science and chairman, Winthrop College.

Catherine Conaghan, assistant professor, Ohio State University; formerly of Simmons College.

Julie Erfani, instructor, Purdue University; formerly graduate student at the University of Minnesota.

Evelyn Fink, instructor, Dartmouth College.

Mark Gibney, instructor, Purdue University; formerly graduate student at the University of Michigan.

Nina Halpern, instructor, Dartmouth College.

Thomas Kephart, research assistant, Senior Specialists Division, Congressional Research Service; formerly of the School of Government and Public Administration, The American University.

Robert Luskin, who received his Ph.D. at the University of Michigan, was appointed assistant professor, University of Alabama.

Michael Mumper, assistant professor of political science, Winthrop College.

David Pion-Berlin, assistant professor of political science, Ohio State University.

Craig A. Rimmerman, assistant professor, College of Charleston; formerly of Ohio State University.

Susan L. Roberts, assistant professor of political science, Winthrop College.

Anne Sa'adah, assistant professor, Dartmouth College; formerly at Middlebury College.

Ronald J. Stupak, Earlysville, Virginia, has stepped down as associate dean for programs at the Federal Executive Institute, but he will remain at the FEI as a senior faculty member, and professor of political science and contemporary affairs through January 1985. On February 1, 1985, he will become a tenured full professor with the School of Public Administration at the University of Southern California. Then on June 1, 1985, he will become the director of the USC Washington Public Affairs Center for a five-year period. (Address: USC/WPAC, 512 Tenth Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20004; Phone: (202) 638-4949.)

William A. Welsh, currently of Arizona State University, will join the faculty of The University of South Carolina in January 1985. He has been appointed professor of government and international studies with concurrent title of associate director of the James F. Byrnes International Center. The Executive Committee of the International Studies Association has announced Dr. Welsh's selection as executive director of the association, whose executive offices are located at The University of South Carolina.

Promotions

Lawrence Baum, professor, Ohio State University.

J. Edwin Benton, University of South Florida, has been awarded tenure and promoted to associate professor.

Larry L. Berg, professor, Department of Political Science, University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

John J. Carter, associate professor, Central Methodist College.

Luther F. Carter, associate professor, College of Charleston.

Ralph C. Chandler, professor, Western Michigan University.

Barbara Ann Chotiner was granted tenure and promoted to the rank of associate professor, University of Alabama.

Neal E. Cutler, professor, Department of Political Science, University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

Nora L. Hamilton, associate professor, Department of Political Science, University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

Samuel M. Hines, Jr., professor, College of Charleston.

Mark E. Kann, associate professor, Department of Political Science, University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

People in Political Science

Nelson Kasfir, professor of government, Dartmouth College.

William W. Lammers, professor, Department of Political Science, University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

David S. Mann, associate professor, College of Charleston.

William D. Pederson, associate professor, Louisiana State University in Shreveport.

Judith H. Stiehm, professor, Department of Political Science, University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

Carol B. Thompson, associate professor, Department of Political Science, University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

David Vogel, professor, School of Business Administration, University of California, Berkeley.

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

Robert Arseneau, visiting instructor for 1984-85, Dartmouth College.

David C. Colby, visiting associate professor and coordinator of the master's program in policy sciences, University of Maryland Baltimore County; formerly of Williams College.

William Paul Collins is appointed visiting research fellow in the Institute for Social Science Research at The University of Alabama for the spring and summer 1985 terms.

Dennis Gayle, University of Alabama, spent the summer of 1984 at Oxford University in London as assistant director of the Alabama-at-Oxford Program.

Gordon Henderson, visiting assistant professor, Purdue University; formerly instructor, Marshall University.

Dennis Kavanagh, Nottingham University, England, will be a visiting fellow at the Hoover Institution, and visiting professor at Stanford University, October 1984 to June 1985.

Akira Morita of Chiba University in Tokyo, Japan, is spending the 1984-85 academic year as a visiting scholar at the University of Alabama.

Retirements

Coleman B. Ransone, Jr. will retire from the University of Alabama on February 1, 1985, after 37 years of service.

Awards

1984-85 Fulbright Scholars

The following list indicates American political scientists who are current Fulbright Grantees (1984-85 academic year). Each entry gives the following information: (1) name of faculty member, (2) home institution, (3) grant activity, (4) host institution and country, and (5) duration of award.

Gary K. Bertsch, Professor, Political Science, University of Georgia, Athens, GA 30602. Lecturing in International Relations: University of Lancaster, United Kingdom, 9 months, 9/84-6/85.

James Brown, Professor, Political Science, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, TX 75275. Lecturing in American Politics: Various Institutions, Turkey, 6 months, 1/85-6/85.

Macalister Brown, Chairman, Political Economy Program, Williams College, Williamstown, MA 01267. Lecturing in Political Science-American Studies: Chulalongkorn University, Bangkok, Thailand, 5 months, 7/84-1/85.

David A. Caputo, Professor, Political Science, Purdue University, West Lafayette, IN 47907. Lecturing in Political Science: Various Institutions, Italy, 3 months, 3/85-6/85.

James W. Ceaser, Associate Professor, Government and Foreign Affairs, University of Virginia, Charlottesville, VA 22901. Lecturing in American Government: Various Institutions, Italy, 6 months, 1/85-6/85.

Steve S. Chan, Associate Professor, Political Science, Texas A&M University, College Station, TX 77843. Lecturing in