Philosophical Studies

An International Journal for Philosophy
in the Analytic Tradition

Editor-in-Chief

Keith Lehrer, University of Arizona

Associate Editor

John Pollock, University of Arizona

Philosophical Studies was founded in 1950 by Herbert Feigl and Wilfrid Sellars to provide a periodical dedicated to work in analytic philosophy. The journal is devoted to the rapid publication of analytical contributions, particularly (but not exclusively) in epistemology, philosophical logic, the philosophy of language and ethics. Papers applying formal techniques to philosophical problems are particularly welcome. The papers published are models of clarity and precision, dealing with some significant philosophical issues; they are intelligible to philosophers whose expertise lies outside the subject matter of the article. A diligent reader of the journal will be kept informed of the major problems and contributions of contemporary analytic philosophy.

Jaakko Hintikka, Dept. of Philosophy, Florida
State University, Tallahassee, USA

Synthese publishes articles in the theory of knowledge, the general methodological problems of science, such as the problems of scientific discovery and scientific interest, of induction and probability, of causation and of the role of mathematics, statistics and logic in science, the methodological and foundational problems of the different departmental sciences, insofar as they have philosophical interest, those aspects of symbolic logic and of the foundations of mathematics which are relevant to the philosophy and methodology of science, and those facets of the history and sociology of science which are important for contemporary topical pursuits.

Particular attention is paid to the role of mathematical, logical and linguistic methods in the general methodology of science and the foundations of the different sciences, be they physical, biological, behavioral or social.

Most of the issues of Synthese are organized into thematic issues, taking the character of symposia dealing with described themes.

Journal of Philosophical Logic

Editors

J. Michael Dunn, Dept. of Philosophy, Indiana University, Bloomington, USA Terence Parsons, Dept. of Philosophy, University of California, Irvine, USA

The Journal of Philosophical Logic publishes papers that utilize formal methods or that deal with topics in logical theory, such as:

- Contributions to branches of logical theory directly related to philosophical concerns, such as inductive logic, modal logic, deontic logic, quantum logic, tense logic, free logic, logic of questions, logic of commands, logic of preference, logic of conditionals, many-valued logic, and relevance logics.
- Contributions to philosophical discussions that utilize the machinery of formal logic, as in recent treatments of abstract entities, non-existent possibles, essentialism, existence, propositional attitudes, meaning and truth.
- Discussions of philosophical issues relating to logic and the logical structure of language, such as conventionalism in logic, ontic commitment, logical or semantic paradoxes, the logic of hypotheses and of pre-suppositions, constructivism, and extensionality.
- Philosophical work relating to specific sciences (such as linguistics, history of logic, or physics), with an emphasis on foundational problems, and making use of logical theory. Some instances of recent work of this kind are the treatments of universal grammar, pragmatics, conceptions of possibility, theories and mathematical truth in the history of philosophy, formalization of scientific theories, or logical structure in quantum mechanics.

Pursuit of Truth

W.V. Quine

In Pursuit of Truth, W.V. Quine updates, sums up, and clarifies his variously intersecting views on cognitive meaning, objective reference, and the grounds of knowledge. This is an important book for understanding the effort that a major philosopher has made a large part of his life's work: to naturalize epistemology in the twentieth century. Marked throughout by Quine's wit and economy of style, it does not assume the reader's previous acquaintance with his writing.

The Dynamics of Rational Deliberation

Brian Skyrms

In this illuminating work, Brian Skyrms constructs a theory of "dynamic deliberation" and uses it to investigate rational decisionmaking in cases of strategic interaction. It will be of great interest to all those in many disciplines who use decision theory and game theory to study human behavior and thought.

"An important book...With its unprecedentedly broad and clear surveys, unified by Skyrms's original contributions, it will be read and discussed by a good many practitioners and students of philosophy (and economics and political theory)."

—Richard Jeffrey, Princeton University

Wise Choices, Apt Feelings

A Theory of Normative Judgment
Allan Gibbard

This book examines some of the deepest questions in philosophy: What is involved in judging a belief, action, or feeling to be rational? What place does morality have in the kind of life it makes most sense to lead? Allan Gibbard develops what he calls a "norm-expressivistic analysis" of rationality. He refines this analysis by drawing on evolutionary theory and experimental psychology, as well as on more traditional moral and political philosophy.

Intention, Plans, and Practical Reason

Michael E. Bratman

"Bratman gives an account of intentions that rings true, and shows why a limited being with complex goals in a complex world really must have something like intentions...He makes a major contribution to the theory of bounded rationality in action."
