

NEWS BRIEFS

Archives of South America

The International Archival Affairs Committee of the Society of American Archivists will conduct its second Archives Study Tour: Archives of South America, in August 1974. The tour will feature visits to public and private archival agencies, manuscript repositories, and libraries in Lima, Santiago, Buenos Aires, São Paulo, Rio de Janeiro, and Caracas. Included also are historical orientation tours of museums and historic sites, and visits to attractions such as Iguassu Falls. An optional extension to Cuzco and Machu Picchu has been scheduled. The tour has been arranged through Sanders World Travel and is available to members of the Society, and other persons interested in archives. For further information write: SAA International Archival Affairs Committee, Frank B. Evans, Chairman, National Archives Building—Room 5E, Washington, D.C. 20408.

Expositions

An exposition titled Tesoros Incaicos was held in several cities in Japan between January and October 1973. The exhibit was sponsored by the Yomiuri Newspaper with the collaboration of the Museo Nacional de Antropología y Arqueología of Lima and the Museo Nacional de Lambayeque (Brüning).

Two expositions, El Dorado and Maya de Guatemala, opened in Tokyo in January 1974 with archaeological pieces from the Museo del Oro of Colombia, the Museo Nacional de Arqueología y Etnología, the Museo del Parque Nacional de Tikal, and some private collections of Guatemala. These exhibits are also sponsored by the Yomiuri Newspaper and authorized by the governments. Another exposition of the Amazonian Tribes, based on ethnographical objects gathered in the Peruvian Amazon, will be held in Japan sometime in 1974, sponsored by the Kyodo Press.

Institute on Latin American Studies

Appalachian State University is presently conducting a four-week Institute on Latin American Studies through July 12, 1974. This Institute is concentrating on the history and politics of modern Latin America (1900 to present). Carl Ross, history, is leading the program for this Institute. Visiting faculty include Ray Shurbutt, Georgia Southern College, Royland Duncan, Tennessee, Edward Moseler, Alabama. Six quarter hours of senior-graduate credit will be awarded to persons who successfully complete the Institute. For further information contact: Carl Ross, Department of History, Appalachian State University, Boone, North Carolina 28608.

Mexico Program

Central Washington State College in conjunction with the Northwest Council of Colleges offers a year-round course of study in Mexico. The program is based in Guadalajara and provides students with course offerings in art, anthropology, biology, geography, sociology, political science, geology, history, economics, Spanish language, and literature. Courses are chosen on the basis of their greater worth and relevance if taught in Mexico rather than in the Northwest.

Faculty include professors of the cooperating colleges, who spend a quarter in Mexico teaching in the area of their specialization, and professors from various Mexican institutions. Field trips are planned to complement and expand specific courses. For additional information on this on-going Mexico Study Program write: International Programs, Central Washington State College, Ellensburg, WA 92926.

Student Conference on Latin America

The Institute of Latin American Studies of the University of Texas sponsored a Student Conference on Latin America in April 1974. The Conference was the first of its kind, coordinated by and for undergraduates. Topics for the papers included social, cultural, economic, and political policies with respect to U.S. and Latin American interrelationships. Further information is available from: ILAS Student Office, Sid Richardson Hall, 1.301, University of Texas, Austin, TX 78712.

Summer Program for Teachers

Central Washington State College, in conjunction with the Universidad Católica of Quito and with the endorsement of the Ecuadorian Ministry of Education, offers teachers a summer professional experience program in Ecuador. Each participant in the eight-week session is housed on a one-to-one basis with an Ecuadorian teacher in Quito.

A total of 15 quarter hours of college credit from Central Washington State College is available through the program. During the initial three weeks in Ecuador all participants will take part in an intensive 5 credit Spanish course. The level placement will be arranged according to individual proficiency. Other courses will include visits to local schools and a series of lectures on a variety of topics. Simultaneous translation will be provided for any lectures not delivered in English. For additional information on this Ecuadorian program write: International Programs, Central Washington State College, Ellensburg, WA 98926.

Tricontinental Films

The Tricontinental Film Center (incorporating the films and personnel from the Third World Cinema Group) was founded in 1970 to make available in the United States films that would contribute to the understanding of the social, economic, cultural, and political situation of the Third World. The Tricontinental Library now includes the work of film-makers from Latin America, Africa, Asia, and other areas of the Third World, as well as films made in the U.S. by American Indians, Blacks, Chicanos, Puerto Ricans, and other ethnic minorities.

Latin American Research Review

Tricontinental films are available for purchase, rental, or long-term lease. In the interest of encouraging and facilitating the broadest possible educational use of the films, Tricontinental uses a flexible pricing system and can provide additional resource materials such as educational booklets, program notes, suggested bibliographies, and coordinate, whenever possible, speakers to appear with the films. For a catalog or additional information write to Tricontinental Film Center, 244 West 27th Street, New York, NY 10001 or P. O. Box 4430, Berkeley, CA 94704.

The University of Wisconsin System

The University of Wisconsin System has launched a Junior Year in Latin America Program based at the University of Costa Rica, San José, Costa Rica. UW-Oshkosh and UW-Eau Claire are the directing campuses. Students will spend a full academic year in Costa Rica, beginning in January, 1974. An intensive Spanish language program will be conducted during February, prior to the start of the academic year which runs from March through mid-December. Students can earn up to 33 credits during the year. Independent study supervised by the UW Program Director will be available to enable the program to meet the needs of individual students. During their stay students will reside with Costa Rican families. For additional information write to the Program Director, Kenneth J. Grieb, Department of International Studies, University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh, Oshkosh, Wisconsin 54901. Students outside the University of Wisconsin System may be admitted on a space-available basis.

PUBLICATIONS

Colección de Estudios Económicos

The Banco Central de Venezuela has begun a new publication series on topics within the fields of theoretical and applied economics with emphasis on those which focus on Venezuela. The first volume in this series, Crecimiento económico y problemas de empleo en Venezuela by M. F. Hassan, appeared in late 1973. For additional information on this title see book listing p. 000.

The Diccionario de anónimos y seudónimos hispanoamericanos

Blaine Ethridge—Books has reissued José Toribio Medina's rare Diccionario de anónimos y seudónimos hispanoamericanos (1925; $38.50), along with the supplements edited by Ricardo Victorica from Medina's manuscripts, Errores y omisiones del Diccionario de anónimos y seudónimos hispanoamericanos de José Toribio Medina (1928; $23.50) and Nueva epanortosis al Diccionario de anónimos y seudónimos de J. T. Medina (1929; $15.00).

The price for the entire set is $75.00. The publisher's address is 13977 Penrod Street, Detroit, Michigan 48223. See also details on p. 000.

Etudes Mesoaméricaines

The French Archaeological and Ethnological Mission in Mexico has announced the publication of a new series entitled, Etudes Mesoaméricaines. Its purpose is to publish the works of the research members of the French Mission and its Mesoamerican Studies Center. The first book of the collection, Lienzos de Chiepetlan, by Joaquin Galarza, appeared in October 1973 and is a study of six pictorial manuscripts painted on cloth, which were recently discovered in a small mountain village of the State of Guerrero.

Volume II was released in December 1973 and deals with the archaeology of Honduras. Los Naranjos by Claude F. Baudez and Pierre Becquelin presents the results of field work at Los Naranjos during the seasons 1968–1969. Volume III, announced for July 1974, contains an archaeological study of Sierra de Tamaulipas during the years 1968–1969. Volume IV, by Anne M. Chapman, is entitled, Les enfants de la mort, mythes des indiens Tolupe (Jicaques) du Honduras. These myths, collected in Spanish, present the Tolupan Indians through their highly imaginary and humorous dialogues. Volume V will contain the phytogeographical study of the Huasteca and surrounding areas. The author, Henri Puig, is a member of the University of Toulouse.

For information on the Lienzos de Chiepetlan, see book listing p. xxx. For details on this new series contact: Guy Stresser-Pean, Director of the Etudes Mesoaméricaines, Mission Archéologique et Ethnologique Française au Mexique, Virreyes 135, México 10, D.F. México.

Latin American Research Review

Interdisciplinary Occasional Papers

The University of West Florida has begun a new publication series, the Latin American Studies Interdisciplinary Occasional Papers. Its purpose is to share the scholarship of the guests of the University's Latin American Studies Program with the academic community interested in the Andean region, foreign governments, U. S. government agencies, commercial activities, and the general public.

Number 1 in this new series is Peru's Institutional Revolution by Robert E. McNicoll. This publication presents the proceedings of the University's 1971 Peruvian-Andean convocation.

The New Corporatism

The January 1974 issue of The Review of Politics was a special issue edited by Frederick B. Pike entitled, The New Corporatism: Social and Political Structures in the Iberian World. Articles by Pike, Howard J. Wiarda, Ronald C. Newton, James M. Malloy, and Philippe C. Schmitter focus on the reemergence of corporatist ideology and organization in the rapidly modernizing Iberic-Latin context.

The University of Notre Dame Press will publish this special issue in hardbound and paperback editions.

PCCLAS Proceedings

The Pacific Coast Council on Latin American Studies now publishes the Proceedings of their annual meeting. Volume I (1971) was distributed in mimeograph form only to PCCLAS members. Volume II entitled, New Directions in the Teaching and Research of Latin American Area Studies, appeared late in 1973. The annual volume will reflect the theme of each PCCLAS meeting through inclusion of the half-dozen best papers, plus an occasional guest article. The PCCLAS intends to keep the Proceedings consistently teaching-oriented, thus providing a supplement to the major research journals already in existence.

The regular institutional rate for the Proceedings is $6.00 per year. The volumes are available to individuals at $4.00 and to PCCLAS members at $3.00 per year. Contact PCCLAS Proceedings, California State University, San Diego, CA 92115.

NEW AND SUSPENDED PERIODICALS

Affari Sociali Internazionali is a new journal published three times a year in Italian by Franco Angeli Editore, Milano, Italy. The first issue, March 1973, stated that the journal will focus on Italy's social problems considered from historic and international perspectives. The first issue included an article on the urban and industrial revolution in Latin America. Each issue costs L.2.000 (L.2500 abroad). For additional information write, Franco Angeli Editore, Casella postale 4294, 20100 Milano, Italy.

Amazoniana publishes works about limnology, landscape-ecology, and related working fields concerning the Amazon region, especially in regard to results of the cooperation between the Instituto Nacional de Pesquisas da Amazônia in Manaus-Amazonas, Brasil, and the Max-Planck-Institut für Limnologie, Abteilung Tropenökologie, in Plön (Holstein), Germany. This review is irregularly published in the form of fascicles, 4 fascicles forming one volume. Late in 1973, fascicle 3 and 4 of volume 4 were being printed. Of the seven articles in the first two issues which came to LARR's editorial offices, six were in English with summaries in German or Portuguese. For information write: Dr. Harald Sioli, Max-Planck-Institut für Limnologie, Abteilung Tropenökologie, Postfach 165, D-232 Plön, (Holstein), West Germany.

The first edition of the Bulletin of the Association for the Study of Religion in Latin America appeared in February 1974. The purpose of this Bulletin is to improve communications among all those interested in the study of religion in Latin America. It will publicize research projects, new and forthcoming publications, major news developments, meetings, and personal items. It is expected that the Bulletin will be published three or four times each year. The first issue contained news on several meetings and consisted of two mimeographed pages. Suggestions and contributions of materials should be sent to: Richard Millet, Department of History, Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville, IL 62025. Changes of address and names for the mailing list should be sent to Ted Zolty, Department of Political Science, Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, MI 48859.

The Museum of Anthropology of the University of Northern Colorado has expanded its publication program on New World anthropology to include South America. This new journal, entitled El Dorado, consists of 3 issues per volume/year and began publication during the summer of 1973. Each issue, of high quality mimeographing, will total about 100 pages and pertain to current research and professional activities in all the fields of anthropology—archaeology, ethnography, ethnohistory, linguistics, physical anthropology, and related programs in the social sciences. The new journal will be similar in format to KATUNOB, also published by the Museum of Anthropology on the anthropology of Mesoamerica. George E. Fay edits the new publication. Subscription/membership dues are $4.00 per year. For additional information write: George E. Fay, Museum of Anthropology, University of Northern Colorado, Greeley, Colorado 80639.