In the original publication of Hernandez (2023), a textual error occurred on page 20. The error currently reads, “In addition to practicing and sharing strategies to navigate the legal system with and among his peers, Eric also took a paralegal course wherein he acquired technical legal expertise in a more formal group setting while incarcerated.”

While the author originally thought this participant’s paralegal course was in a more formal group setting, it was a correspondence course. The author apologizes for this error.
