Survey of the Sino-Soviet Dispute

A COMMENTARY AND EXTRACTS FROM THE RECENT POLEMICS, 1963-1967

By JOHN GITTINGS. This documentary work extracts and interprets the valuable information and comment from the mass of verbiage exchanged between China and the Soviet Union since 1963, and presents a chronological account of the most important issues and events of the Sino-Soviet dispute. Extracts from Soviet and Chinese documents are arranged in thirty sections, each of which is preceded by an editorial commentary, providing the essential background. $11.75

The Crisis of Indian Planning

ECONOMIC POLICY IN THE 1960s

Edited by PAUL STREETEN and MICHAEL LIPTON, both of the University of Sussex. This symposium provides analysis of the main aspects of Indian planning over recent years. The volume opens with an examination of the problems created by India's brand of federal democracy and then assesses industry and agriculture. The human factor is considered next with discussions of education, health, the family planning program, and the contribution of social anthropology to Indian planning. The book also analyzes defense and foreign aid and gives a statistical record of Indian planning and achievements. (Royal Institute of International Affairs.) $10.50

The Book of Zambasta

A KHOTANESE POEM ON BUDDHISM

Edited by R. E. EMMERICK. The book of Zambasta is the longest single poem to survive in Khotanese. Written in the oldest form of that language, it has been the traditional starting point for beginners in the subject as well as a source for linguistic scholars. The last edition was published thirty years ago; this volume takes advantage of all the folios direct from the manuscripts, together with facing English translations. (*S.O.A.S. Rizal

PHILIPPINE NATIONALIST AND MARTYR

By AUSTIN COATES. In the first European biography of José Rizal to appear since Rentana's classic of 1907, Mr. Coates relates and interprets the events which led to both Rizal's martyrdom and his renown. Rizal's writings are said to have inspired the Philippine Revolution of 1896-98, and for this reason a bibliography of Rizal's works has been included in the larger comprehensive bibliography. $9.25

THE COMING OF AGE OF NEW ZEALAND
The Pattern of
New Zealand Culture

Edited by A. L. McLEOD. In just a century and a quarter New Zealand has developed a characteristic national culture. This work by acknowledged authorities, most of whom are still resident New Zealanders, is the first comprehensive treatment of New Zealand's distinctive culture. New Zealand is here presented as the sum of its organized community experience, encompassing all its economic, social, and political institutions and attitudes. 320 pages, 8 pages of illustrations, 3 maps. $11.00

Community Change in a North Indian Market Town

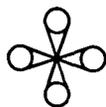

By RICHARD G. FOX. The author lived for a year in the business community of "Tezibazar" to collect the material for this well-written, penetrating account of conservatism and change in a small market town of northern India. Emphasizing the town's economic and political organization, Professor Fox analyzes the replacement of custom and traditional organizations by new social ideas and institutions in line with the political machinery of modern India. 336 pages, 4 maps, 4 charts, 22 tables. $11.00

THE MYSTIC VISION

Papers from the Eranos Yearbooks, Volume 6
Edited by Joseph Campbell

Since 1933, the annual Eranos conferences—held at Ascona, Switzerland, and later published in the famous Eranos-Jahrbücher—have brought together eminent scholars from Europe, Asia, and America. This, the sixth volume of selections translated from the Jahrbücher, offers a range of stimulating lectures on mysticism chosen from many years of the conferences.

Included are papers on primitive religion by Wilhelm Koppers; on Far Eastern themes by Heinrich Zimmer and Erwin Rousselle; on Manichaeism by Henri-Charles Puech; on Gnosticism by Gilles Quispel; on Islamism by Louis Massignon; on Christian themes by Ernesto Buona-iuti, Jean de Menasce, Boris Vysheslawzeff, and Friedrich Heiler; and, in summation, on "Mystical Man" by Erich Neumann.

Translated by Ralph Manheim. Four illustrations; about 475 pages. Bollingen Series XXX: 6 $7.50

INDIA AND WORLD POLITICS

Krishna Menon's View of the World

MICHAEL BRECHER

Professor of Political Science, McGill University

A colorful and fascinating portrait of one of India's most controversial figures. "For seventeen hours Mr. Brecher examined Mr. Menon over the rotating tapes. Perhaps nobody but Mr. Brecher could have pulled off this scoop. . . . He probably knows more about the first two decades of India's independence than anyone except Mr. Menon, with the result that this record of their exchanges is both revealing and dramatic."—The Observer (London). 404 pp., appendix, index. AFGHANISTAN

July 21st to August 26th, 1969

—A Visit to a Nation—

Organized and led by present and former American residents of Afghanistan and their Afghan friends. Escorted from New York by Miss Julia Lydon, now of Boulder, Colorado, formerly of Kabul where she was connected with the Government Tourist Office of Afghanistan.

Afghanistan is the real Central Asia. Here, you will see in leisure the great sights of Central Asia which are only scantily presented in Soviet Central Asia and in Outer Mongolia: the great mountains and deserts, the proud and wealthy nomads, the Kochi, with their Bactrian camels and their equestrian games, the stupendous archaeological monuments of the Graeco-Buddhist and other pre-Islamic civilizations, ancient Asian cities with their splendid mosques, their great bazaars and their art and architecture. Here, you will find genuine hospitality from all classes and tribal groups of the country, people proud of their heritage and willing to show it to the visitor who respects their customs and their way of life.

Itinerary: Kabul, Gasni, Kandahar, Lashkoder, Qalabist, Girishk, Farah, Herat, Obek, Jam, Herat, Qalinar, Maimana, Shibarkhan, Mazar i Sherif, Balkh and Tash Kurgan, Sokotal, Kunduz, Khanoum, Khanabad, Baghlan, Pul i Khumri, the Banyam Valley and the Band i Amir lakes, Kabul. A few days in Nuristan at the end.

Government and -tribal guest houses, also tents. Bring sleeping bags. —Transportation: motor coach, landrovers, camels and ponies. No formal age limit but normal good health necessary. Not particularly strenuous. A rare opportunity to see the real Central Asia and a great experience for those who are willing to forego for a short time some of the amenities of conventional tourism.

Printed tour booklet and reading list can be obtained from Treasure Tours. All inclusive cost from New York: US $2395.00 payable on request in up to 24 monthly instalments.

The Great Asian Religions: An Anthology

Compiled by Wing-tsit Chan, Chatham College, Isma'il R. al Faruqi, Syracuse University, Joseph M. Kitagawa, The University of Chicago, and P. T. Raju, The College of Wooster

“This anthology offers essential materials for a beginning course on Asian religions, world religions, or comparative religion. Although limited in quantity to what one volume will hold, the selections are indispensable for the understanding and evaluation of the religious systems of Asia.”
from the Preface

This text is the only single collection of contemporary translations of the writings from all the major Asian religions, many of which have been translated by the editors. The source materials are enhanced by comprehensive editorial comments, explanations, introductions, and notes. Each author is well equipped to interpret the Eastern thought of his religion to Western man, since he has been raised within the cultural milieu of that religion, and is fluent in the native language. The selections are divided into four major parts. The Religions of India feature Hinduism as traced through its doctrinal developments. The Religions of China and Japan are presented historically. Islam is given a subjective treatment to demonstrate how the Muslim understands it. Aids to the reader include a glossary, and several chronologies at the end of the volume.

The Broken Triangle

Peking, Djakarta, and the PKI

By SHELDON W. SIMON

What were the domestic and international influences that set the stage for the abortive 1965 communist coup in Indonesia? To analyze these influences, Dr. Simon sketches the foreign policy objectives of Communist China and Indonesia. Examining the destructive effects of the coup on the Indonesian-Chinese (and PKI) alliance, the author traces the decline of Peking's influence in Indonesia and discusses China's ineffectual attempts to salvage the PKI. In conclusion, Dr. Simon posits a relationship between Peking's Indonesian setback and the Great Cultural Revolution, which he sees as a challenge to the common assumption that China is capable of subverting all of Southeast Asia. $6.95 cloth

Russia and Nationalism in Central Asia

The Case of Tadzhikistan

By TERESA RAKOWSKA-HARMSTONE

Focusing on the Soviet republic of Tadzhikistan, Dr. Harmstone provides a comprehensive picture of Soviet Russian methods of colonization, which illustrates trends common to all of Soviet Central Asia. Her central theme is the increasing nationalist potential in the Soviet-educated elite—a dangerous potential for the Soviet empire. After discussing Tadzhikistan's geographical, historical, and economic background, the author analyzes the Tadzhik power structure and the composition of the political elite. In concluding chapters, she treats the social and political structure of the society and cultural affairs. $9.00 cloth

Commodore Matthew Perry's monumental record of the opening of Japan

The complete original report republished in facsimile.

■ The consequences of Commodore Perry's historic mission to Japan in 1853 have been observable in both nations ever since. The treaty he concluded laid the groundwork for America's foreign policy in the Pacific. And the knowledge he gathered colors the popular view of Japan to the present day.

■ During and after their visit, Perry and his officers kept painstaking notes on the customs they saw, the Asian way of life, the lands, climate and wildlife they encountered. It was these notes that were published by order of Congress in 1856 in a three-volume collection entitled, Narrative of the Expedition of an American Squadron to the China Seas and Japan, 1852-1854.

■ More than 100 years after they were issued, these volumes are available again in the first complete replica ever published. They are printed on long-lasting paper, durably bound in cloth, and include all the detailed illustrations that made the original publications so rich a source of factual data. Each contains more than 400 pages. 3 volumes plus map case: $200

YOGA • Immortality • and Freedom

By Mircea Eliade

Translated from the French by Willard R. Trask

Mircea Eliade's work on the beliefs and practices of yoga has become classic in its field. It is an exhaustive study of the most important ascetic techniques of India and a reconstruction of their history. Growing out of years of study and experience in India, it surveys numerous aspects of yoga: yoga in Buddhism and in Tantrism, Oriental alchemy, mystical erotism, shamanism and others. The author has added new bibliographical material and made corrections for this second edition.

The Concept of Man in Early China

DONALD J. MUNRO

On the basis of very early Chinese bronze and bone inscriptions, as well as classical texts, the author reaches new conclusions about the ancient Chinese view of man's possibilities and limitations, and his relations with other men and with the universe. The work also serves as a new approach to understanding the nature of early Chinese philosophy as a whole. March. About $7.50

HIGHER CIVIL SERVANTS IN POST-WAR JAPAN

Their Social Origins, Educational Backgrounds, and Career Patterns

AKIRA KUBOTA

This volume presents an analysis of Japan's powerful upper bureaucracy in the post-war period. The author's aim is to provide an empirical foundation for the many impressionistic accounts of Japanese bureaucracy and a systematic basis for comparative studies of bureaucracies in other countries. The study ranges from the family and geographic backgrounds of higher civil servants through their educational training and career patterns to their retirement and post-retirement activities. Throughout, the emphasis is on assembling and analyzing the kind of systematic data that provide a solid basis for understanding how the Japanese bureaucracy actually works.

A distinguished series covering the meteorological phase of the International

Indian Ocean Expedition

The International Indian Ocean Expedition (1960-65) was designed to observe, describe, and possibly explain the circulations of ocean and atmosphere, the exchanges across their interface, the chemical composition and distribution of living things in the ocean, and the bottom topography and coastal structure of an ocean which is more extensive than Asia and Africa combined.

Involving the scientific staffs and equipment of some 25 countries, 44 research vessels, and numerous airborne data-collecting devices and satellites, the expedition was planned by a scientific committee on ocean research (SCOR) of the International Council of Scientific Unions and was jointly sponsored by SCOR and the Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission of UNESCO.

When completed, the series will comprise approximately ten volumes and two atlases.
