Cover Art: Nadezhda Tolokonnikova (C), Maria Alyokhina (R) and Yekaterina Samutsevich (L), members of the Russian female punk band "Pussy Riot," sit behind bars during a court hearing in Moscow on July 20, 2012. The young women were arrested after they climbed on the altar of Moscow's Christ the Saviour Cathedral and sang a song they called a "Punk Prayer—Mother of God, Chase Putin Away." Held without bail, they were charged with "premeditated hooliganism performed by an organized group of people motivated by religious hatred or hostility," and in August 2012 they were convicted and sentenced to two years in prison. ## 1005 Review Index

Philosophy of Perspectives on Politics

Perspectives seeks to nurture a political science public sphere, publicizing important scholarly topics, ideas, and innovations, linking scholarly authors and readers, and promoting broad reflexive discussion among political scientists about the work that we do and why this work matters.

A full-length copy of the journal's editorial philosophy appears in Perspectives on Politics 8(1): 7–10 and also on the web at http://www.apsanet.org/content\_44375.cfm.

Submission and Review

For submission guidelines, please see http://www.apsanet.org/content\_44360.cfm.

Our editorial team discusses all submissions. Those that seem promising are evaluated by several external reviewers—with full confidentiality on both sides—and then accepted, returned for further revisions, or declined with suggestions of more appropriate venues for publication.

About APSA

Founded in 1903, the American Political Science Association is the leading professional organization for the study of political science and serves more than 15,000 members in over 80 countries. With a range of programs and services for individuals, departments, and institutions, APSA brings together political scientists from all fields of inquiry, regions, and occupational endeavors within and outside academe in order to expand awareness and understanding of politics.

The direct advancement of knowledge is at the core of APSA activities. We promote scholarly communication in political science through a variety of initiatives including publishing three distinguished journals: American Political Science Review, Perspectives on Politics, and PS: Political Science and Politics.
