The Country & the City

By RAYMOND WILLIAMS. “[Williams] is a remarkably acute critic and historian. The present work is really about the English country and its literary treatment from the sixteenth to the twentieth centuries, with periodic glances at the city. . . . He is excellent on Dickens, George Eliot, and Joyce; refreshingly caustic on Lawrence; but reserves the fullness of his critical powers for the best and most deeply respectful criticism of Hardy that I have ever read.” — PHILIP TOYNBEE, The Observer $9.75

Americans and the California Dream 1850-1915

By KEVIN STARR. “This exuberant book solidly manages to encompass the breadth and variety of its continuously fascinating subject: from the Spanish heritage to the impact of the earthquake, from the Gold Rush to the Great Exposition, from religious revivals to architectural innovations, from literature and ideas to social and ecological conditions.”—HARRY LEVIN, Harvard University. “It should become a classic book on California.” — JAMES D. HART, University of California, Berkeley. 30 halftones. $12.50

THE ESSAYS OF DAVID M. POTTER

Edited by DON E. FEHRENBACHER. “What we have here is the product of a remarkable mind, the distilled wisdom of an all-too-brief lifetime of thought and study. . . . I found all the essays continuously fascinating . . . statements of immense importance, written with compelling force.”

The new book on

MICHIGAN'S BLACK SUPER STAR

Joe Louis

*New in the continuing series—
Great Men of Michigan*

by A. O. EDMONDS

"Pure delight. Professor Edmonds provides both biography and social commentary. This conceptually provocative and gracefully written volume transcends its series. Michiganians will no doubt read it with pleasure; sports enthusiasts will welcome its appearance; and students of social interaction will give it careful study."

CHILE, PERU AND THE CALIFORNIA
GOLD RUSH OF 1849

Jay Monaghan

Mr. Monaghan offers a picture of the Gold Rush seen from the point of view of two minor elements in it, the Chileans and the Peruvians. He describes not only their actions, but details the effect of the Gold Rush on the old and settled cultures of Pacific South America. It is strange that the Chilean and Peruvian participation in the Gold Rush has never received adequate attention, for they arrived months ahead of the Forty-Niners and were mostly experienced miners who set about teaching the late-arriving 'Anglos' how to pan for gold and dig mine shafts.

THE IDEA OF FRATERNITY IN AMERICA

Wilson Carey McWilliams

In his astonishingly original interpretation of the whole of American history and political thought—from seventeenth-century white Puritanism to twentieth-century Black Pantherism—Wilson Carey McWilliams offers a critique of the liberal tradition and a new social philosophy for the future based on the long-cherished ideal of the past: fraternity, a relation of affection founded on shared values and goals.

THE RADICAL REPUBLICANS AND REFORM IN NEW YORK DURING RECONSTRUCTION

James C. Mohr

New insights into the politics of the Reconstruction era are offered in this study. Contending that the North, as well as the South, underwent reconstruction after the Civil War, the author examines the kinds of legislation the Radical Republicans tried to enact when they gained control in New York. Reform is the central theme of the book: fire protection, public health, labour, education, and voting are some of the areas covered.

RADICAL ABOLITIONISM

Anarchy and the Government of God in Antislavery Thought

Lewis Perry

This book focuses on the various radical movements that emerged from anti-slavery ideas in the 1840's and 1850's. The author argues that abolitionists saw slavery as a sin because the slaveholder intervened between God and the slave. He points out that this interpretation of the sovereignty of God was potentially anarchistic, and he traces connections between the basic beliefs of the anti-slavery movement and those of particular radical abolitionist groups who made charges of 'slavery' against other American institutions—the church, government, and family.

PATRICK J. HURLEY AND AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY

Russell D. Buhite

This probing and dispassionate biography of the flamboyant Patrick J. Hurley (1883–1963) is also a study of American foreign relations during the 1930's and 1940's. Making imaginative use of the Hurley papers and other available sources, Professor Buhite examines Hurley's attitudes toward Philippine independence and his part in the Mexican oil controversy and in shaping America's policy towards the Middle East and Soviet Russia. Hurley's most significant contribution to American diplomacy—his role in the making of China policy during 1944–1945—receives a new interpretation.

LANDLORDS AND TENANTS ON THE PRAIRIE FRONTIER

Paul W. Gates

Collected here are nine important essays by the leading authority on public land questions. Published in widely scattered sources between 1935 and 1962, they show how America's national land system functioned in the prairie states before the Homestead Act was adopted in 1862. Professor Gates has added a substantial introduction as well as headnotes to each article, describing research done since original publication.

FROM CONFEDERATION TO NATION
The American Constitution 1835–1877

Bernard Schwartz

Professor Schwartz describes how the Supreme Court laid the groundwork for Constitutional amendments which made enforcement of civil rights a national function and extended federal protection of life, liberty and property against the powers of government.

THE POLITICS OF CONTINUITY
Maryland Political Parties from 1858–1870

Jean H. Baker

By examining Maryland political parties and politicians before, during and after the Civil War, Dr. Baker shows that the Democratic machine controlled state politics for the entire period. She illustrates how Democratic politicians held power largely by playing on such issues as Negrophobia, free elections and constitutionalism.

DANIEL WEBSTER AND JACKSONIAN DEMOCRACY

Sydney Nathans

Professor Nathans reveals a completely new Daniel Webster. He shows that the meaning of Webster's career lies in his attempt to bridge old and new politics, and that this attempt was doomed to ironic and revealing failure.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION FOR AMERICAN STUDIES

This Association was founded in 1955 to promote the study of the United States within the United Kingdom. It welcomes applications for membership from people interested in the history, society, government and politics, economics, geography, literature and thought of the United States. It publishes a Newsletter twice yearly, holds an Annual Conference, and provides other services for its members from time to time. Enquiries concerning current subscription rates and applications for membership should be addressed to the Secretary, Dr Charlotte Erickson, London School of Economics, Houghton Street, Aldwych, London, WC2A 2AE.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to: The Editor, Journal of American Studies, Department of American Studies, The University, Manchester M13 9PL, England.
2. Articles should generally contain about 5000 words. Longer or shorter articles, or articles in two or more parts, may be accepted by arrangement with the Editor.
3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
4. Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing, preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. Diagrams and maps may be included by arrangement with the Editor.
5. Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered in one sequence throughout the article, and should preferably be typed in double spacing at the end of the article.
6. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
7. Notes intended for the Editor or printer should be on a separate sheet.
8. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within ten days of receiving them.
9. Correction should be kept to an absolute minimum. It should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorizes otherwise.
10. Contributors of articles and review articles receive 25 free separates. Extra copies may be ordered according to the scale of charges.
11. Contributors need not be members of the British Association for American Studies. Unsolicited typescripts can only be returned to overseas contributors who send International Reply Coupons (not postage stamps).
12. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the U.S.A.
