Paul

MARTIN DIBELIUS

and WERNER GEORG KÜMMEL

A biography of the apostle Paul, translated by FRANK CLARK from the German of one of the most distinguished New Testament scholars of this century, Dr. Martin Dibelius. Of the German edition, Professor T. W. Manson in the Manchester Guardian wrote: '... a remarkably vivid and lifelike impression of St. Paul the man, a clear picture of his work ... and a concise but adequate account of his teaching.' 7s. 6d. net

Spiritual Authority in the Church of England

An Enquiry

CANON E. C. RICH

A thorough and most scholarly survey of the many problems involved in the question of how much authority the Church of England has, and from where it is derived. Canon Rich examines in detail the various strands that make up the Church, and then goes on to offer some suggestions towards solving the problem of Spiritual Authority. 22s. 6d. net

The Trial of Oliver Plunkett

By Alice Curtayne

16/- net

On July 1, 1681, Oliver Plunkett, Catholic Archbishop of Armagh was hanged, drawn and quartered—the last person to be executed in connection with “The Popish Plot”. Alice Curtayne conducts us through the story—the trial as taken down by the court reporters, with the background filled in at every point: the political intrigues in London, with Lord Shaftesbury goading the mob to cry “Treason” against the Archbishop while plotting treason himself, the story of each witness, the degradations and the heroisms of oppressed Ireland, conditions in Newgate, the relations between England, France and Spain, the earlier Popish Plot trials; and through it all the simplicity and holiness of Plunkett himself.

The book has a particular contemporary interest, as the author points out in her Foreword, because of the similarity between Plunkett’s trial and that of Cardinal Mindszenty in 1949.

SHEED & WARD

It is almost a copy-book maxim that some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested. How does the common reader follow that critical lead to-day?

The purpose of The Times Literary Supplement is to assist and guide the reader, contending with the flood of new books which pours from the world’s presses, in the selection of what to read or study. This it does by maintaining standards of criticism of recognized authority.

It reviews all important new books, foreign as well as English, and in so doing attempts to survey the whole field of contemporary thought and culture. Its contributors—by tradition anonymous—include many of the most distinguished scholars and men of letters of the day.

FRANCIS OPPENHEIMER

Frankish Themes and Problems

These essays, by a notable expert on the period, investigate five related problems of early French history and iconography. Sir Francis submits a new explanation of the old problem of where and when Clovis became a Christian, supporting conclusively the claim of Tours. The other themes of the book are concerned with the miracles of St. Remi, and the circumstances of his burial and re-burial; the Tympanum in the Church of St. John at Monza; and finally the origin of the Fleur de lis.

With 24 pages of plates and 15 drawings. 42s
