The Encyclopedia of American Catholic History

Michael Glazier and Thomas J. Shelley, Editors

The Encyclopedia of American Catholic History

Michael Glazier and
Thomas J. Shelley, Editors

This first reference work of its kind ever published in the U.S.A. is a splendid and unique achievement created by hundreds of historians and writers who cooperated to narrate the saga of American Catholicism. Beginning with Columbus, this comprehensive work spans half a millennium and covers the men, women, and events that shaped Catholic life in a vast and diverse nation. It charts the growth of the Church in each state, contains hundreds of biographies of men and women from all stratas of society, and includes extensive coverage of American dioceses, religious communities, and saints. Over 1,200 articles, 300 photographs, and a million words comprise this elegant volume, which provides American Catholics with a panoramic and extraordinary education in their identity and heritage.

VATICAN ARCHIVES

An Inventory and Guide to Historical Documents of the Holy See

Edited by FRANCIS X. BLOUIN, Jr.

This is the first comprehensive guide to the holdings of the Vatican Archives—one of the richest archival sources for the history of the Western world. Organized into related agency groups, Vatican Archives includes 500 entries that provide detailed histories of each administrative agency of the Vatican, its purpose and workings, followed by a listing of the official records it produced; it is these administrative records that now constitute the archives. Including an alphabetical index of agencies and series titles, along with chronological and geographical indexes and cross-references, this research tool provides a systematic and heretofore unavailable overview of the archives, enhancing and expediting access by scholars in a broad range of disciplines.

Lived Religion in America

Toward a History of Practice
Edited by David D. Hall

At once historically and theoretically informed, these essays invite the reader to think of religion dynamically, reconsidering American religious history in terms of practices that are linked to specific social contexts. The point of departure is the concept of “lived religion.” Discussing such topics as gift exchange, cremation, hymn-singing, and women’s spirituality, a group of leading sociologists and historians of religion explore the many facets of how people carry out their religious beliefs on a daily basis.

Contributors include Robert Orsi, Danièle Hervieu-Léger, Anne S. Brown, David D. Hall, Leigh Eric Schmidt, Stephen Prothero, Cheryl Forbes, Michael McNally, Rebecca Kneale Gould, R. Marie Griffith, and Nancy Ammerman.

“A fascinating collection that graphically demonstrates how participants become subtle theologians of ‘lived religion’ in America, from Ojibway hymn-singing to rustic homesteading and the ‘Women’s Aglow’ movement.”—Jon Butler, Yale University
