EDITORIAL POLICY

The British Journal of Political Science is an independent journal, whose policy is set by its editorial board. It is committed to no methodological orthodoxy over and above the normal canons of scholarship: clear and consistent use of words, logical and mathematical validity, and the use of appropriate evidence to substantiate empirical statements. Contributions are invited in all fields of political science, including political philosophy and political sociology. Work addressed to problems of general significance to students of politics will be published whatever the period(s) or place(s) drawn upon for evidence.

Cambridge Journals in the Social Sciences

Ageing and Society

A new international journal devoted to publishing contributions to the understanding of human ageing, particularly from the social sciences and humanities. Its interpretation of ageing as a subject is wide and includes all aspects of the human condition whether they relate to individuals, groups, institutions or societies. £24.00 for institutions £17.00 for individuals

Archives européennes de sociologie European Journal of Sociology

The aims of this journal are firstly to reaffirm and continue the European tradition of historical and comparative sociology, and to incorporate in it the more important contributions made by empirical studies. Secondly, they are to encourage comparative studies of the institutions of European societies, and of European institutions in other parts of the world.

£22.00 for institutions £12.50 for individuals

Comparative Studies in Society and History

This is a truly international forum of social analysis which publishes the work of authors from throughout the world in many disciplines – including history, sociology, anthropology, political science, as well as law, economics and the humanities.

£23.00 for institutions £12.50 for individuals

Journal of Public Policy

This new journal will publish articles that use concepts derived from any of the social sciences to illuminate a significant problem facing contemporary government. Articles which cross the conventional boundaries between the social sciences will be particularly welcome.

£30.00 for institutions £15.00 for individuals

Journal of Social Policy

This journal is concerned with the historical and theoretical analysis of social policy and with processes and problems in the implementation of social policy at both national and local levels. It explores the relationship of social administration to all the social sciences as well as to social work and social action.

£29.00 for institutions £17.50 for members of BSA

Joseph Chamberlain

A Political Study

Richard Jay

'Richard Jay's biography, more than any other, succeeds in analysing Chamberlain's role... It is, in consequence, not only a very fine biography of a complex and important figure; it is also a remarkably good analysis of Victorian and Edwardian politics.' The Economist. £16.95

The Writings and Speeches of Edmund Burke

Volume II: Party, Parliament and the American Crisis,
1766–1774

Edited by Paul Langford

This volume covers Burke's early years in the House of Commons and his emergence as a political and parliamentary figure of the first importance. It contains two of his greatest works, The Thoughts on the Cause of the Present Discontents, and the Speech on American Taxation, as well as numerous lesser pieces and speeches, some of them printed here for the first time. £40

The People's Budget 1909–10

Lloyd George and Liberal Politics

Bruce K. Murray

'The story is told with great skill and good sense by Bruce Murray, and his book will immediately become the standard work on the subject... Politicians should read Mr Murray. In the quarrel over the People's Budget there was encapsulated, in an early form, most of the issues which have just dominated the electoral clashes between Reagan and Carter, Thatcher and Callaghan, Strauss and Schmidt.' The Economist. £17.50

The Cheka: Lenin's Political Police

The All-Russian Extraordinary Commission for Combating
Counter-Revolution and Sabotage
(December 1917–February 1922)

George Leggett

This deeply researched and closely documented study examines the first Soviet political police organization, colloquially called the Cheka, which was founded by Lenin just six weeks after his October coup d'état, and ruthlessly suppressed all internal opposition to the precarious Communist regime. £22.50

The People and the Party System

The Referendum and Electoral Reform in British Politics

VERNON BOGDANOR

The British party system and the effects of electoral reform upon it have been the subject of political debate throughout the last decade. This book offers the first comprehensive critique of the historical debate on the referendum and electoral reform in British politics from the nineteenth century to 1981.

The Science of a Legislator

The Natural Jurisprudence of David Hume and Adam Smith

KNUD HAAKONSEN

This book presents an interpretation of the philosophy of law which Adam Smith developed out of – and partly in response to – David Hume's theory of justice. It is the first full account of Smith's jurisprudence, and provides an over-all reading of his social and political thought.

Appearance and Reality in Politics

W. E. CONNOLLY

The author considers how, in modern Western states, institutional pressures combine with the citizens' own political interests to create a dichotomy between the way in which the political order is seen, and the underlying reality.

'Connolly's level-headed and unsentimental work is a tract for the times.'

Organizing Interests in Western Europe

Pluralism, Corporatism and the Transformation of Politics

Edited by SUZANNE BERGER

From a variety of standpoints and disciplines in the social sciences, the contributors to this volume examine questions about political economies which centre on 'corporatism' – the tendency to create a concert of interests among the broad array of organized groups in modern industrial societies.

YALE

Modern Authoritarianism A Comparative Institutional Analysis

Amos Perlmutter

In this provocative study, Perlmutter examines all the major forms of modern authoritarianism – from Hitler to Idi Amin – and explains what political structures are common to all of them, how they are distinguished from each other, and what makes them work.

£12.20

The War Trap

Bruce Bueno de Mesquita

In a major breakthrough in the scientific study of war, Bueno expounds a deductive theory about why states go to war using concepts of expected utility, uncertainty, and risk-taking to link international conditions and the thinking of the state decision makers.

£16.85

Language and Political Understanding

The Politics of Discursive
Practices

Michael J. Shapiro

Shapiro discusses modern methods of political inquiry using the insights of several contemporary schools of philosophy.

£18.20

How Courts Govern America

Richard Neely

Richard Neely, Justice of the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia, describes the reasons for an activist judiciary in the United States of America. He offers the surprising theory that it is the courts – rather the legislature, bureaucracy or electoral system – that make American democracy work.

£10.50

Strategy and Choice in Congressional Elections

Gary C. Jacobson and Samuel Kernell

Although political folk wisdom holds that national events and conditions have an important effect on American elections, surveys of individual voting behaviour find that other considerations appear to be vastly more significant.

£10.50

Social Justice in the Liberal State

Bruce A. Ackerman

‘Original in conception, persuasive in argument, and attractive in style... It is an outstanding contribution to political philosophy in general and an impressive defence of liberalism as a creed.’ – Times Higher Educational Supplement.
